

Nomination Papers For Judge Graass Are Filed At Madison Monday

Green Bay Jurist Has Not Signified If He Will Enter Congressional Race

SUPPORT IN ALL COUNTIES
Complete Democratic State Ticket Has Filed Nomination Papers

By Associated Press
Madison—Judge Henry Graass of Green Bay, filed nomination papers with Elmer S. Hall, Secretary of State Monday as opponent to Mr. Hall in the race for congress in the ninth Wisconsin district. George Schneider, the third candidate entering the congressional contest in this district, filed papers on Saturday.

The complete Democratic state ticket entered the primaries with the filing of their nomination papers Monday. Mrs. Ben C. Hooper of Oshkosh, as candidate for the United States senate headed the list. A. A. Bentley, of La Crosse and Karl Mawie, Wausau filed as Democratic candidates for governor. Peter S. Brzonkala as candidate for secretary of state and J. M. Collins of Sheboygan as candidate for attorney general.

Green Bay — Judge Henry Graass this morning refused to make any statement concerning his candidacy for congress. Under the law he has five days in which to notify the secretary of state if he will become a candidate.

The nomination papers, which were filed by Attorney J. A. Kittell, Green Bay, were circulated without Judge Graass having a part in the procedure. They were circulated in all the counties in the Ninth district and bear approximately 2,200 names, more than twice as many as required.

The judge's candidacy is being received with enthusiasm all over the district, reports here indicate.

EXPECT YOUTH TO DIE FOLLOWING AUTO ACCIDENT

Joseph Van Schindle Suffers Fractured Skull When Car Hits Tree

Joseph VanSchindle, 24, of Little Chute, is in St. Elizabeth hospital with no hope for his recovery from injuries suffered in an accident about 8:45 Monday morning on the concrete highway near Little Chute village. He apparently lost control of the car, after which it left the pavement and crashed into a tree.

An examination revealed that his skull is fractured, his jaw broken, his head cut in places, and his right hand and right leg broken. He still was fighting for life at 1 o'clock in the afternoon but two physicians attending him believe there is no chance for recovery.

John Dercks, another occupant of the car, suffered a painful injury to his shoulder and is confined to his bed at his home at Little Chute. Arnold Hietpas, the third passenger, escaped with only a few scratches. The automobile was a total wreck.

It is said that the trio was riding east on the highway toward Little Chute. The car had reached a point between a railroad crossing and a bridge and left the pavement, crashing into the tree that stood in its path. A resident of that locality notified the police and the injured man was conveyed to the hospital.

INVENTOR OF UKULELE DIES IN HONOLULU

By Associated Press
Honolulu—Manuel Nunes, inventor of the ukulele, the musical instrument of Hawaii, died at his home here of heart disease after a long illness. His death brought to light that, contrary to general belief the ukulele was known to the Hawaiians only after the advent of the white man. Nunes was born in Funchal, Madeira in 1843 and came to the Islands in 1878. The following year he fashioned a rude, guitar like instrument with a cigar box and a few strings. It was from this that the ukulele of today evolved.

TIME UP ON NOMINATION PAPERS TUESDAY NIGHT

By Associated Press
Madison—The time for filing nomination papers by candidates in the September general election primaries, expires Tuesday night, Elmer S. Hall, secretary of state, announced Monday. After that time no candidate can have his name entered on the primary ballot.

Most of the major candidates already have their petitions filed, but all who have failed to meet the requirements are instructed by the secretary of state, that they must comply within the time limit if they are to enter the primaries.

LABOR BOARD WILL MAKE NO OTHER STEPS

Baltimore and Ohio Road Heads Will Meet Strikers On Separate Peace

GOVERNMENT IS SILENT

Ten Thousand Station Employees Will Not Be Ordered Out On Strike

By Associated Press
Chicago — With government officials maintaining silence in regard to the railway strike except for the announcement of Chairman Hooper that the Railroad Labor board would make no further move at present, interest Monday was centered in the separate peace efforts of officials of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad in their meeting at Baltimore Tuesday with representatives of the striking shopmen. Despite the failure last week of some efforts made at St. Paul by northwest roads, it was confidently predicted that the Baltimore conference would obtain favorable results.

Should the meeting result in an adjustment of difference it was expected that other railroads would follow the same course.

The silence of federal officers was interpreted as meaning that President Harding was inclined to let the situation drift for a few days, while he received the report of Secretary of Labor Davis, and further inquired into facts.

EXPECT ACTION SOON

That the president might take some action soon, was indicated in his efforts to obtain the facts from all angles. The conference Friday between members of the Senate Interstate Commerce committee and eastern rail chiefs, the conference with Chairman Hooper and Secretary Davis' meeting at St. Paul, Minn., with strike leaders, a member of the labor board and a commissioner of conciliation of the department of labor, seemed to strengthen the belief that a definite plan was being made.

Possible action by the Interstate Commerce commission was seen in the statement of Attorney General Daugherty that the commission could exercise a supervisory power over carriers. But this would probably mean that the commission would direct distribution of coal under a system of rationing, sending it first to points in greatest need.

NO STRIKE OF STATION MEN

Railroads which had declared embargos on perishable freight continued to enforce the ban and motor trucks were pressed into service in several instances.

Few disturbances were reported over Sunday. Authorities at Lynndale, Utah, were searching for an unidentified non-union worker who was said to have caused the death of a striker by pushing him in front of a moving train. A disturbance at Cedar Rapids, Ia., resulted in the injury of a guard and a non-union shopworker.

Ten thousand unionized railroad station agents will not be called out on strike, W. J. Noone, president of the organization, announced Monday after a conference with W. L. McMenimen, labor member of the labor board.

"I will instruct my men to remain at work and order that committee confer with the road managements over all points at issue" he said.

Husky Woman Seeks Office Of Sheriff

By Associated Press
Madison—A woman candidate who says she will be an "honest-to-goodness" sheriff if elected to office, is in the field for the Republican nomination in Taylor county.

Mrs. Charles Pitzke, 38, the wife of a farmer, and mother of eight children, is the candidate who is asking election from the voters of the county. She claims that if named for the office she can handle all of its duties. Physically, Mrs. Pitzke is the equal of almost any man. She is six feet tall, of a sturdy build, and in the best of trim from outdoor work on the farm.

The candidate says that she has demonstrated her ability to efficiently handle the position of sheriff if elected to it, by the fact that she has raised a family of eight children. No one challenges her physical qualifications, Mrs. Pitzke says.

ALLIED PREMIERS TO DECIDE GERMAN REPARATION FATE

Request for Moratorium Will Be Answered After Council Meet in London

By Associated Press
Paris—The whole reparations problem now is in the hands of the allied premiers and it is considered unlikely the reparations commission will render any decision on Germany's request for a moratorium until after the opening session of the allied council in London early next month. The report of the committee on guarantees regarding the control measures agreed on as a result of its investigation into Germany's finances and economic affairs is expected to be ready this week.

Premier Poincaré's plan to confer with Lloyd George and other allied premiers before the reparations commission makes its decision is regarded as a definite indication that the French premier believes the consideration of a comprehensive settlement essential at this time.

There is considerable sentiment in the reparations commission in favor of reconvening the international committee of bankers.

Any readjustment of the reparations payments which involved a reduction of the total German indemnity would insure another session of the bankers, it was pointed out in reparations circles.

TO REDUCE NUMBER OF ARMY OFFICERS

By Associated Press
Washington—The board of general officers headed by Major General Jos. T. Dickman, appointed by Secretary Weeks in compliance with the current army appropriation bill was called in its first session at the War department Monday to begin selecting nearly 2,000 regular officers, who are either to be retired, demoted one grade or honorably discharged, in order to cut the officers corps by the first of the year to the limits fixed by congress.

The records of nearly 12,000 officers must be examined by the board in order that separations from the active service required can be completed by December 15, the date set by the war department.

U. S. CAPITAL BEST SEAT FOR LABOR BOARD

Close Relationship Exists Between Federal Government and Rail Board

CHICAGO IS TOO FAR OFF

General Meeting of Department Concerned With Transportation Is Needed

By David Lawrence
Copyright 1922 by Post Pub. Co.
Washington—Frederic Harding's decision to send for Chairman E. W. Hooper of the United States Railway Labor board may be the forerunner of a change in location of the headquarters of the board itself which hitherto has been fixed at Chicago by law.

So close is the relationship between many activities of the federal government in the national capital and the work of the labor board that entireties apart from the numerous problems which have arisen to complicate the railroad strike situation the president is convinced that the interests of everybody would be better served if the board moved to Washington. Mr. Harding is considering a request that congress amend the transportation act to permit the change.

For many weeks, Mr. Harding has been trying to keep in touch with the rail situation either by letter or long distance telephone. But he lacks information as to intimate phases of the negotiations between rail executives and labor leaders which cannot be gotten except by personal contact. The atmosphere so to speak is missing—it is hard to follow the delicate process of industrial negotiations from a thousand mile distance.

BOARD NEEDS U. S. ADVICE

The labor board has made some mistakes—probably its members would be the first to admit it. There are those in the government who claim that these mistakes would not have happened if the board had been located in Washington and had the benefit of the counsel and facts which various departments of the government could give.

In the question of seniority rights which arose after the rail strike was called, the labor board in the opinion of its critics put itself on record too rapidly and made it difficult for the railroads to recede on this point. It is asserted that the railroads have in the past used the threat of forfeiture of seniority rights only in an extreme emergency and have constantly postponed putting it into effect to give time for a reconciliation.

Mr. Harding and Mr. Hooper find themselves compelled to arrange some way out of the present difficulty of seniority rights. They might have accomplished this many days ago if they could have sat down face to face and talked it out. The president feels that the labor board ought to be in closer contact also with the interstate commerce commission. The board, which has been sitting in Chicago, fixes the wages of the railway employees—the largest item of expenditure which the railroads have. The interstate commerce commission fixes the income of the roads. The one bears a close dependence on the other.

The president is insisting that the two boards ought to sit down together occasionally and compare notes.

MEETING INEVITABLE

A general get-together of all bureaus and departments involved in the transportation problem is inevitable and Mr. Hooper's conference with the president is bound to be followed by other conferences before a solution of the rail strike is found. Indeed, President Harding is known to have considered favorably the idea of a department of transportation in connection with the reorganization of the government so that all matters affecting freight and passenger carrying by land and sea might be woven together in a single jurisdiction.

"STAR BOARDER" COWS REDUCE YIELD OF MILK

By Associated Press
Urbana, Ill.—Elimination of "star boarders" among milk herds has resulted in doubling the milk yield in many herds, W. L. Payne told teachers of vocational agriculture at the opening of their annual conference here Monday.

Mr. Payne who is located at Richmond, Ill. spoke on the work of cow testing associations. At the Richmond Burton community high school during the past year a free cow testing association was organized among the farmers, Mr. Payne said, and resulted in the farmers feeding an economic balanced ration to their herds and a systematic herd improvement. The tests discovered what Mr. Payne called "star boarders", the cows which eat but do not produce well and thus resulted in determining the value of individual animals.

The work was done by the boys of the vocational agricultural class with the help of their instructors.

FIVE ARE KILLED WHEN STREET CAR HITS AUTO

By Associated Press
San Francisco—Five persons were dead Monday and four others were believed dying as the result of a collision here Sunday night between an automobile and street car. The automobile after turning over, burst into flames burning the victims badly before they could be rescued. The victims were all of one family.

IN KANSAS ROW

William Allen White (above), Kansas editor and author, says the Kansas industrial law is being used to repress free speech. So he posted a sign in the window of his newspaper, the Emporia Gazette, expressing sympathy for the rail strikers, hoping to make a test case of it. His friend, Governor Henry J. Allen (below), immediately ordered White's arrest. Both say the proceeding will not interfere with their friendship for each other.

OSHKOSH POLICE OFFICER KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Automobile Hits Motorcycle and Drags Officer Over Curb—Skull Fractured

By Associated Press
Oshkosh—George O'Connor, motorcycle officer of the Oshkosh police department died Sunday night at a local hospital from injuries received when he was run over and dragged by an automobile in a collision at a street corner. The driver of the automobile was George Tiffany of this city, and he was taken into custody pending a verdict by the coroners jury. The accident happened about 10 o'clock Sunday morning. The automobile and motorcycle officer were on the intersecting streets and met at the corner. O'Connor tried to steer away from the machine but was knocked down and dragged over a curb, the auto striking a building and being damaged. A postmortem showed two fractures of the skull, one in front and another at the base. The auto causing the fatality had been purchased the day before by Tiffany. Witness claimed neither the auto nor the motorcycle were traveling at excessive speed. O'Connor was born at Juneau, Wis. in 1880. He had been on the police force since 1912. The funeral is Wednesday.

NORTHWESTERN ROAD REMOVES TWO TRAINS

By Associated Press
Milwaukee—Two more Milwaukee-Chicago trains were taken off by the Chicago Northwestern railroad effective Monday. These include No. 118, leaving Milwaukee at 1 p. m. daily and No. 205 leaving Chicago at 12:31 p. m. According to Charles Thompson, general agent here, this change in the schedule is forced because of the coal shortage. While Mr. Thompson admitted that the coal situation was serious he felt that no more changes in passenger schedules would be necessary this week.

Jes' Watchin' Railroad Train Passing Along

By Associated Press
Birmingham, Ala. — When police answered a riot call at the Louisville and Nashville railroad shops at Boyles early Monday morning they found a crowd of approximately 250 men, women and children armed with sticks and a mighty suave spokesman. They were waiting for a work train taking workmen into the shops.

"What's the trouble boys?" Chief of Police McDuff called, pulling out of an automobile.

"We're just plain, simple country folks who want to see the train go by," the leader of the crowd replied. "That all right?"

"Fine said the Chief. "We want to see it too."

So they all watched the train go by. There was no disorder.

VETS TOLD TO GET CERTIFICATES FOR INJURY PAYMENTS

Col. Forbes, Director of Veterans Bureau, Advises of Necessity

Milwaukee—There are a large number of veterans throughout Wisconsin and other states who have neglected to apply for a certificate of injury, according to word received by the local bureau of the United States Veterans' bureau from Charles R. Forbes, director. The failure to obtain this certificate will militate against the veterans in making application for compensation under the Veterans' Bureau, in the event that he fails to apply for compensation within five years from date of discharge, therefore Col. Forbes is urging veteran organizations to advise their members of the necessity of securing such a certificate.

The certificate of injury must be obtained prior to Aug. 9, 1922 as provided in section 306 of the war risk insurance act as amended Aug. 9, 1921. This section of the act covers the limitations of the right of an ex-soldier to obtain compensation for a disability resulting from a disease or injury of service origin, unless the disability within one year from date of discharge, or unless the discharged soldier or sailor in question can obtain from the director of the United States Veterans' bureau a certificate of injury one year from date of separation from the service prior to Aug. 9, 1922. The director of the bureau desires to inform the persons who may have sustained an injury or disease in the service, likely to result in death or disability, as their right to certificate of injury and also as the limitation of the statute which makes it imperative that they have such a certificate if compensation should be payable for disability from such an injury.

It is not necessary, according to the director to file a claim for compensation or to take any formal action other than the writing of a letter to the Veterans' bureau in Washington, D. C., giving the name, rank, organization, date of enlistment and discharge and stating the circumstances under which the disease or injury in question was incurred.

DEFENCE MADE IN SENATE FOR CHEMICAL CO.

Underwood Denies That There Was Fraud in Obtaining of German Patents

By Associated Press
Washington—The Chemical foundation and its president, Frances P. Garvan, former alien property custodian, who are being proceeded against by the government for the return of German chemical patents, were defended in the senate Monday by Senator Underwood of Alabama, Democratic leader, who criticized President Harding and the administration, for the action taken against them.

Denying that there was fraud, collusion or conspiracy in the acquisition of the German patents by the Chemical foundation, Senator Underwood also commended the record of A. Mitchell Palmer, former attorney general and former alien property custodian in dealing with enemy alien property seized as a pledge for payment. Senator Underwood's statements were made during an address in support of his recent bill to create an American commission to press American damage claims against Germany and Austria, using enemy alien property seized as a pledge for payment.

Mr. Underwood opposed the administration plan for a joint claims commission or another treaty to deal with the claims, declaring there was no necessity for further negotiations with Germany on the subject. He reviewed at length the alien property legislation and cited figures showing that property worth $600,000,000 was taken over and controlled secured of 200 alien corporations.

Quoting from Mr. Palmer's report on enemy alien property Senator Underwood said that the $250,000 paid by the Chemical foundation in securing rights to the 5,000 German chemical patents was "adequate" when the government's right to use the patents was considered.

REOPENING OF MICHIGAN MINES By State Depends on Conference Outcome

Legal Phases of Coal Distributing Have Been Considered By Daugherty

By Associated Press
Detroit—The conference scheduled Monday for the move between Gov. Groesbeck and Leo T. Jones, president of district 24 United Mine Workers of America to consider steps toward bringing about resumption of operations in Michigan coal mines, will not be held until Tuesday the governor announced Monday.

The request of Mr. Jones who advised the governor he would be unable to meet with him Monday.

The governor announced that pending the conference with the union head he would withhold any further move toward re-opening the mines.

HOOPER CALLS MEET

Washington, D. C. — Bituminous coal operators of six states gathered here Monday at the call of Secretary Hoover who sought their cooperation with the government and the railroads in a coal distribution scheme designed to protect the carriers and necessary industries against a shortage and prevent profiteering. As threatened out Sunday, the plan contemplates the creation of a central committee with representatives, it is understood, from the department of commerce, justice, interior and the Interstate Commerce commission, operating through local committees in the producing districts of Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee, Kentucky, Pennsylvania and Alabama.

Coal distributing, it is planned will be controlled through pooling in the various producing districts and the distribution of cars under a preferential system to be instituted under the Interstate Commerce commission.

Carrier Pigeon Takes Greetings to Mayor of Milwaukee—Lachie Speaks

By Associated Press
Oshkosh—At the first session Sunday of a two day convention of the Wisconsin Poultry Breeders association, H. W. Lachie of the department of markets of the University of Wisconsin in an address to about 400 delegates outlined a plan to grade, classify and standardize poultry and eggs on a basis similar to that in force for dairy products. He also advocated action to protect American consumers from the imported frozen and dried eggs shipped from China and used by some bakers. They sell at a low price due to China's cheap labor, he said and he advocated a high tariff on them to keep them out. The convention was opened by the president, A. P. Laabs, of this city.

John F. Marvin, president of the Milwaukee association took charge as chairman. An address of welcome was given by Mayor A. C. McHenry. In the morning at 9:30 o'clock several carrier pigeons were liberated sending greetings to the mayor of Milwaukee. A banquet was held Sunday night, Monday F. L. Platt, of Chicago, was to speak on "breeding standard poultry."

TO PRESENT MANDATES TO LEAGUE OF NATIONS

London—Since the approval of the Palestine and Syrian mandates by the council of the League of Nations Saturday the Secretary of the league has been going over the texts in order to have them conform technically with other mandates given by the league and embossed with the changes suggested. The mandates will be presented in final form to the council Monday afternoon for formal confirmation and publication.

The council of the league will meet again the last week in August and the assembly of the league the first week in September.

IF I COULD REPAIR RADIO OUTFITS

I would immediately inform Appleton people that I knew how to install and repair radio outfits. Any number of families now have radio sets. Some of them work. A lot of them don't. But the owners trust to luck mainly. They are more or less at sea when something goes wrong.

With my Want Ad under "Services Offered" in Post-Crescent these people would be able to trust to luck no longer. They'd simply give me a ring and I'd put things in shape again. Satisfaction all around.

HAYS OPPOSED TO MOVIE CENSORSHIP

Los Angeles—Will H. Hays, former postmaster general and now head of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors Association, here Monday for a week's study in the stronghold of the industry, said to interviewers that the principle of freedom upon which this nation was founded makes public censorship of press, pulpit, film or spoken word virtually an impossibility.

Mr. Hays predicted: "State wide or nationwide censorship will fall in everything it undertakes. It hasn't been done successfully and never will be. Too many people who know nothing about the business are named on censorship boards. We are going to obviate the necessity of censorship."

MT. OLIVE CHURCH HAS ANNIVERSARY

More than 450 people attended the celebration of the first anniversary of Mt. Olive Lutheran church at the church on Sunday. There were three services in the church, which were well attended and more people stayed for the meals served by the women of the church than they had prepared for.

The Rev. R. E. Ziesmer, pastor of the church, spoke at the morning service on "Beloved Mt. Olive, Abide by the Gospel of the Crucified Christ." In the afternoon the Rev. E. B. S. Jenter spoke on "God's Plan and of Building His Church." The Rev. A. Zich of Green Bay spoke in the evening on "Christians, the Salt and Light of the World."

BAKER SPEAKS IN APPLETON TUESDAY

John F. Baker, candidate for Republican nomination for attorney general, will speak in Appleton at 8:30 Tuesday evening instead of at 8 o'clock. The change was made necessary by a shift in arrangements for his talk in Kaukauna. He was scheduled to speak there at 8:30 but a baseball game at that time interfered and his address will be at 7 o'clock.

Mr. Baker will speak in Soldiers square here. He will spend the entire day in Outagamie county speaking in Hortonville, Shiocton, Black Creek, Seymour, Kaukauna and Appleton.

M'KEE WILL SING AT BAND CONCERT

Carl McKee again will be the soloist at the concert by the 121st Artillery band in West Park, South side, Tuesday evening. The concert is to begin at 8 o'clock.

An excellent program is being prepared by the director, Prof. Percy Fullinwider.

FEATURE LOCAL BOY'S SONG AT BAND CONCERT

Venetian Blues, a popular song composed by an Appleton boy, will be featured at the band concert at West park Tuesday evening. The composer is Edwin Hillman of Milwaukee formerly of Appleton. He was given first prize for this selection in a contest promoted by music publishers. The silver loving cup presented to Tillman is now on display in the show window of the Meyer Seeger Music company. Carl McKee, Appleton tenor will sing the prize song at the band concert.

Visits Here After Absence Of 57 Years

Some of the oldest residents of Appleton were surprised Monday by a visit from W. S. Hanna of Columbus, Ohio, who is making his first visit here since he left the city 57 years ago. He recalls about a dozen "old timers" and is endeavoring to see all of them. Mr. Hanna is stopping at a Neenah and is on his way north on a long automobile trip.

SCHNEIDER AGAIN IS ON LABOR BOARD

Will Have Part in Pushing Legislative Program Outlined at Convention

George T. Schneider of Appleton was one of the five members of the State Federation of Labor from the state at large to be elected to the executive board at the closing sessions of the convention in Oshkosh. Mr. Schneider was one of the five members to be re-elected. The new board of directors will take up at once its work of pushing the extensive legislative program which the convention outlined.

Henry Ohl, Jr. was re-elected to the position of general organizer and J. J. Handley of Milwaukee was re-elected as secretary-treasurer. Mr. Ohl also was elected to be the representative for Wisconsin at the American Federation of Labor convention in 1923. The next state convention will take place in Superior.

SMITH IS HONORED BY STATE BARBERS

The Wisconsin State Federation of Barbers went on record at their annual convention last Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at Oshkosh in conjunction with the State Federation of Labor as being opposed to having a clerk at the head of the barber division. Acting upon the belief that a member of the craft can be of more help to the union, a resolution was adopted to make a change and a committee was appointed to take up the matter and bring about the change, if possible.

Officers also were elected as follows: Roy W. Sherman, Watertown president; Frank Haven, Madison vice president; Fred H. Below, Oshkosh, second vice president; W. E. Smith, Appleton, third vice president; M. H. Whitaker, Milwaukee, secretary and treasurer. It was voted to raise the per capita fee. Practically all of the delegates to the barber conference were delegates to the state federation meeting also.

THE STAGE

Crowds Greet "Mahendra"

The great interest displayed in "Mahendra's" appearance was displayed by the enormous crowds that swarmed Fischer's Appleton Theatre Saturday and Sunday. His work has held the audience awe-stricken and all those who came to the theatre in a skeptical mood were sent home wondering what power this phenomenal person possessed. There seems to be no end of what "Mahendra" can answer however many questions were sent to him which are of such a nature that it probably would be embarrassing to some to have them answered to a mixed audience of men and women, so therefore Wednesday afternoon has been set aside for a special Matinee for Ladies Only, at which time Mahendra will answer questions of a private and pertinent nature. Owing to the limited time he has to work at the evening performances it is impossible to answer all questions however it is advisable to attend matinees when possible, as he will have a better opportunity to go further in detail on many things you desire to know.

In order to give the ladies a chance to secure choice seats for the Wednesday Matinee all seats for this performance have been reserved and are now on sale at the box office at 44c.

Mahendra will be here until Friday of this week and the only change of program will be in the pictures. Today for the last time Mary Miles Minter in "The Heart Specialist," tomorrow and Wednesday and Thursday "Spanish Jade."

Performances start promptly at 2.7 and 9 and it is advisable to be in your seats at show time come early and secure a choice seat. Mahendra will make you shake the shackles of skepticism.

SEYMOUR MAN SEEKING ASSEMBLY NOMINATION

One more man has entered the contest for the office of assemblyman from Outagamie-co. Assemblyman Antoine Miller, Second district, who has thus far been unopposed, will have a rival in A. A. Brazeau of Seymour. Friends of Mr. Brazeau who is an attorney, started circulating nomination papers on Monday. The announcement of Attorney Brazeau's candidacy came as a surprise to most people.

John Schwammer, county board member from Center, has filed his nomination papers for the office of assemblyman from the First district. Assemblyman Mary Catlin filed last week. Charles Schrimpf is the third candidate for this office.

POULTRY FANCIERS AT MEETING IN OSHKOSH

Several Appleton poultry fanciers attended the sixth annual convention of the Wisconsin State Poultry Breeders' association at Oshkosh on Sunday. Charles Shea, formerly of Appleton, was chairman of the house committee and member of the association were divided into committees of 15 each to meet and look after the guests. More than 300 attended on Sunday.

The program featured the sending of several Milwaukee carrier pigeons to their home. Games were played early in the afternoon and a boatride on the Valley Queen followed in the afternoon. The business sessions of the association meetings opened on Monday morning and continued through the day.

Mahendra Answers Large Number Of Mail Questions

Mahendra, who is playing at Appleton theatre this week, entertained large crowds at weekend performances with answer to numerous questions. His mail to the Post-Crescent is exceedingly large and more questions are coming in constantly. The keeper will attempt to answer as many as possible through this paper before he leaves here. Address all communications to "Mahendra, care of the Post-Crescent."

Here are answers to a number of questions:
Jorgine—When will we receive balance of money owed us, from certain party? Ans.—It seems to me that you do not know of the whereabouts of this party at present. I find that they reside in Chicago at present. I do not see that you will get the money in full until Jan. 1923.
G. A. S.—Will I ever marry? Ans.—Yes you may expect a marriage late in the Fall of 1923. I see the initials as A. R.
M. A. M.—Will I go back to my old position? Ans.—No, it seems to me that you will keep the position in Appleton as I get the impression the old position was out of the city.

Gertrude—Will my brother come here this fall? Ans.—He will come very late this year, about the month of December.
S. V.—Will I meet a man I love very soon? Ans.—I see that you will meet the man you will marry the middle of next month. You will meet him at a social gathering.

R. P.—Has this gentleman friend that I go with any intention of asking me for steady company? O. is there some one else? Ans.—It is not that he has another in mind, but is due to the fact that he is some what bashful. He will get courage in time.

A. M. G.—Will I in my future life have a good home? Will my surroundings be pleasant? Ans.—I see you will have the opportunity of making a good home, this depending on you. The surroundings will be of a fairly pleasant nature, at first they will better later on.

A. G.—Will I be successful in the thing I have in mind? Ans.—It comes to me that the thought which is up, most in your mind concerns a business which you have just started. It will be quite successful but will take considerable time to develop properly.

G. E. M.—Am I going to marry the fellow I am going with now? Ans.—Yes, but I do not see this until quite late in the year of 1923.
Mary—Will I marry the young man I am going with at present? Ans.—Yes, and as soon as possible, for if you don't there is a certain blonde whom you know who will.

J. W. H.—How will my investments turn out? Ans.—Your investments will turn out very good. It seems to me they are entirely safe.
L. S.—What became of my mother's watch? Ans.—It seems to me that this watch was misplaced within your own home about a year ago. Look in an old trunk which seems to have a great many odds and ends in it.

M. H. B.—Will I marry the young man I am corresponding with at present? Ans.—No I can not see you married to that young man. I also see trouble around you concerning other people. You will see him again about the tenth of August.

Eleanor B. H.—How soon before I will receive money for work which I have been at for some time? Ans.—You will receive some money for this in about ten days.
A. A. H.—Will my friend come to see me this summer? Ans.—Yes if this friend is from the South, then you may expect him late next month. I do not see however that you will marry him.

Eve M. R.—Please tell me where my uncle is? Ans.—I get the name of John surrounding your uncle and he seems to be near Pittsburg, Pa. at present.
Reader—Will you tell me what became of my blue cameo pin? Ans.—It seems that this pin was laid upon a dresser fell off and was swept out upon the ground. I do not see a chance of a recovery.

THREE BOTTLES OF TRUTONA WORTH $300 TO SELF AND DAUGHTER, SAYS LOCAL LADY

Wife of Kimberly-Clark Co. Employee
Relieved of Weakness and Dizzy
Spells While Child is Regaining Strength and Weight.

"This medicine Trutona just worked like magic for me—why three bottles which my daughter and I have taken together have been worth three hundred dollars to us," is the frank and unqualified statement of Mrs. Frank Kneice, wife of an employee of Kimberly-Clark Co., and lifelong Appleton woman, residing at 999 South Division-st.

"For several months," she continued, "my liver had been sluggish and my whole system seemed rundown. My appetite was poor, I was constipated and at times would become so weak and dizzy I could hardly get around. My little 14-year-old daughter had been eating and sleeping so little that she had fallen off in weight until she looked terrible. Then we decided that both of us needed Trutona. The result is that those former dizzy spells and weakness have left me entirely, my appetite is fine, my bowels have been regulated and I'm a hundred per cent stronger now. As for my daughter—she looks and acts like a different girl. She eats like a little pig, sleeps as she should and is regaining her strength and weight right along."

Trutona has brought health and happiness to hundreds of Appleton homes and is continuing to do so daily. It will help YOU just as it has hundreds of your friends and neighbors who formerly suffered from stomach, liver, kidney, bowel, blood troubles or tributary ills. Mr. Winsey is widely known throughout the county and would make a most admirable county official tied to no clique and unhampered by obligations which interfere with his obligation to serve the taxpayers."

BLAME LIGHTS FOR HEAD ON COLLISION ON MACKVILLE-RO.

Cars Figure in Smashup and Several Persons Are Cut and Bruised

Two Ford touring cars were damaged and several occupants of both automobiles were injured in a head-on collision on the Mackville-rd. three miles north of Appleton city limits at about 9:30 Sunday evening.

One of the automobiles was owned by the August Jahneke garage and was rented by Christ Heaton and William Boyle of Appleton. Four other young men were in the party. The other car was driven by Robert Selig, a farmer on the Mackville-rd.

According to the report of the young men, the lights on the opposite car which was approaching from the north were so strong that the driver was blinded. In the crash that followed, the car occupied by the sextette was forced into the ditch though remaining on its wheels, while the other car landed on its side on the middle of the road. Mr. Selig's wife and daughter were injured to some extent and William Boyle's arm was bruised, the front wheels of the Jahneke car were broken and the fenders and windshield of the Selig car were smashed, it was said.

SHOVE CAR INTO DITCH; RUN AWAY

Another violation of all laws of humanity took place outside New London at about 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon when a big black touring car bumped the Ford sedan, in which Mrs. Arthur Smith and Mrs. Michael

SONGS OF OTHER DAYS NEVER SEEM TO LOSE OLD FAVOR

Mother and Dad, and Even the Kids, Enjoy Old Time Favorites

Can you imagine a more satisfying situation for Mother and Dad than sitting before a fire in the grate with the lights turned low and the phonograph playing the old songs of the days of their youth? According to the music dealers, there are a good many evenings spent by the middle aged and elderly people playing the old favorites on the phonograph.

A small amount of sheet music copies of the real old favorites is sold at present and not so many of the old songs in music rolls for player pianos, but the phonograph record sale is enormous. Most of these old numbers are sung or played by the very best artists in the higher priced records.

IN EVERY COLLECTION It is not only the older people who buy the old favorites like "Love's Old Sweet Song," "Silver Threads Among the Gold" and "I'll Take You Home Again, Kathleen," but these songs are contained in practically every record collection. One dealer in Appleton has had an enormous sale of a record which combines eight waltz songs of the past including, "The Sidewalks of New York," "The Bowery," "Summertime" and others. So popular has this record been, that the company is releasing a companion record of eight more old-timers.

The sale of the first record has gone over 1000 in Appleton and averages 25 a week and more since it was released a considerable time ago.

Bound collections of the old songs are in great demand according to the book sellers who have them in all kinds of bindings and several editions. These bound songs are so popular that there are times when it is very hard to procure them.

WAS SONGS DEAD Out of the hundreds and hundreds of popular songs of the past five or ten years, only a few have lived in the minds of the general public. Of these, perhaps, "There's a Long Long Trail" is the most popular, while "Little Grey Home in the West," "Lonesome That's All" are in great favor.

Few of the many war songs have lived to be after the war, but "Keep the Home Fires Burning" still holds its own and there is considerable call for "Over There" and the records of army bugle calls.

The music by Carrie Jacobs Bond, "Just a Wearyin' For You," "Perfect Day" and others remain very popular in sheet music with old and young. In the group singing at Appleton's Womans clubroom and at the cottage at the lake, the girls soon weary of the immediately popular tunes and turn readily to the old songs which every one knows. There is never a "sing" conducted by the club but what the majority of the songs used are the older ones which have found their places and will stay. The young people are as fond of singing the old songs as their parents.

"BROWNIE" RAPS COPS WHO STALK MOTORISTS

"Solving the Speed Question" is discussed in a recent number of "Good Roads," a highway magazine. In this particular issue the phase of the topic is whether motorcycle policemen should be uniformed. On this subject, Brownie of journalistic fame says:

"If any Wisconsin city wished to carry on a successful campaign against speeders we suggest in a spirit of fair play they put their motorcycle men in uniform with their badges outside and have them patrol the road rather than hide behind trees, barns and other places and pick out foreign cars as their victims."

"One man stationed at the city limits of state trunk highways in plain sight would prevent any tendency to speed."

NEW "Y" BOARD MEMBERS TO HAVE FIRST MEETING

Three new members elected to the Y. M. C. A. board at the recent election will be welcomed at the July luncheon at 12:45 Thursday noon. They are F. E. Schintz, George H. Packard and W. S. Ford.

Execution of the proposed dormitory addition will be up for consideration. Recommendations concerning the project will be made by a special committee which met Friday. Members of the committee are A. F. Tuttle, G. E. Buchanan, W. S. Smith and F. J. Harwood, president, and George F. Werner, general secretary, ex-officio.

THINKS PEARL-ST. DISGRACE TO CITY

Business Man Believes Tourists Ought Not to Be Obligated to Ride Bumps

"Why does the city of Appleton talk new bridges when those we have now cannot be kept in first class condition for traffic?" remarked an Appleton business man who was discussing the subject with a number of autoists who were finding the same fault he did.

He declared that the section of roadway between the passageway at Fox River mill and the Fourist incline, despite bearing the heaviest usage of any piece of street, is in the worst condition of any. Lack of filling next to the street car and railway tracks at one point leaves a depression of several inches, he says, and springs on several automobiles have been broken when they struck the bump unawares.

Planks between rails usually are not kept evenly surfaced and the black portions and sandstone covering are unusually rough in places. It is said. The shaking up that automobile occupants must take leaves a bad taste in the mouth of the tourist, this man says, and believes the city ought to take action to remedy these conditions.

TOURIST CAMP SURVEY IS RECEIVED BY C. OF C.

Tourist camps as they are conducted in many cities are described in a special report of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States prepared at the request of Secretary Hugh G. Corbett of the local chamber. The best ideas of many communities are set forth.

Mr. Corbett asked for the report in order to learn how Appleton's facilities for assisting the large number of tourists here each summer could be improved. It appears that this city has about as attractive a camp as any, but it is possible that methods will be devised for giving a better information service.

Begins Threshing Rye One of the first farmers in Outagamie-co. to begin threshing this year is Edward Springstroh of the town of Freedom. He began threshing his rye on Thursday, hauling the grain in from the field to the thrasher. It is estimated that the yield of hard grain this year will run about 20 to 30 bushels per acre.

Automobiles Are Rough On Savings, Bankers Say

Pretty Hard to Drive Car and Save Money, Investigation Shows

"Automobiles are the ruin of saving accounts," stormed one banker in Appleton when asked about savings accounts, while another said that he was really surprised at the small effect which the increased automobile craze has had in the way of diminishing the savings.

"The bank books of this bank would be a liberal education," said the teller of one of the banks which has a large amount of business in savings. Some men who have never earned large salaries, have had families, given them good educations, had a piano on which the children took lessons, and yet their savings accounts have grown consistently. We have a great many people who save a good percentage of their salaries every week or every month as the case may be. The remarkable thing about savings accounts is the reluctance with which people draw money from them, once it has been laid aside as savings."

SAVE CHRISTMAS SAVING According to the bankers, there is a growing tendency for people to save the money permanently which they save through the Christmas Savings clubs. The deposits from these clubs in January make that month one of the largest depositing months of the year. July and January are considered the big savings months because during those months, the greater part of the dividends are paid and a large percentage of these are deposited. Many people who have wanted to sell their Liberty bonds have been persuaded by the bankers to keep them and to take out a note to tide over an emergency. In most cases, the people who wished to get rid of their bonds have been able to meet the note and keep the bond.

WRECK BANK ACCOUNTS "Because practically the only people who save money at all are consistent savers," said one banker of large experience with the working men, "we can point to no one month as the big saving month. It would seem logical that when expenses are lighter in the summertime, people would save more, but don't forget the automobile, the cure of the nation. Some of the families which had large enough bank accounts with which to buy good cars have not saved a cent since they bought the car."

As long as people who cannot afford to buy automobiles there will be a decline in savings accounts: it is inevitable. People are growing broke buying automobiles and they certainly should be considered a liability for the average man. At first, we tried to discourage the withdrawal of money from the savings account in order that it be used for automobiles, but we cannot stem the craze which is sweeping the country at the present time."

Conversations with the men who lend the money brought out the fact that several companies in the cities are dealing entirely with loans made

STATE INSPECTORS ARE VISITING SUMMER HOTELS

Managers of summer hotels and restaurants have been notified by the state board of health that inspections will be made of all such places during the summer. During the second quarter state inspectors made 202 inspections of hotels and issued 78 orders for needed changes, and 544 restaurants inspections with 62 orders. Industrial orders to reduce danger from fire and accident were issued in 44 cases. Sanitary inspections will be made at as many county fairs as possible during the fair season.

NEW ROAD NEAR ANTIGO ELIMINATES CROSSINGS

Eleven miles of disintegrated granite road between Birnamwood and Antigo on trunk highway 39 is to be built this summer according to announcement of W. H. Lange, federal engineer of Wisconsin highway commission. The new road will be a relocation and will eliminate four railroad crossings, two in Birnamwood and two north of that city.

The new federal road will shorten the distance between Birnamwood and Antigo by two miles. The engineer now is purchasing the right of way. Actual construction work will start Aug. 1.

on automobiles. Drafts for a certain amount of money monthly, made payable to these companies, are very common among automobile purchasers. A remarkable percentage of the people who purchase the "gasoline wagons" are doing it on the "so much down and so much per" basis, according to those who should know.

Police Take Auto The police took charge Friday of a Ford racer which had been left for several days at the Henry Panzenhagen farm, Mackville-rd. It belongs to Walter J. Sedo, rural mail carrier at Dale, and was left at the farm following a tipover. The farmer asked to have it taken away, as he did not want the responsibility of looking after the machine. It is being held at the police station for Mr. Sedo.

STRIKE ISSUE GOES TO THE PRESIDENT

The rail strike has finally gone to the president, where it was inevitable it would fetch up sooner or later. Mr. Harding wants complete information on the issues involved in the strike. This in itself is an admission that there are two sides to the controversy. If there were not two sides the government would utilize its full power to enforce the railroad labor board's findings. It would break the strike if it were possible to do so not only because it was convinced that the Labor board was right, but to preserve that feature of the transportation act which has been set up as an agency to promote peaceful relationship between the railroads and their men.

When the strike was called the employees were denounced as outlaws, forfeiting all rights to further consideration by either the railroads or the Labor board. The truth was, of course, that they were nothing of the kind and that they had a perfect right to strike. It was further contended that in rejecting the cut in wages ordered they were refusing liberal pay for their services. This claim was accepted by the public to a considerable extent until the facts began to come out, when it appeared that the reductions in at least some classes of work in the shops and in the maintenance of way department were excessive. As a result, sympathy for the strikers developed. At present the refusal of the rail executives to recognize seniority rights of the men is standing in the way of reopening negotiations. The country is not likely to support the railroads in this attitude, for that would be equivalent to saying that peace would not be made with the men except on the basis of complete surrender.

It is becoming more evident every day that the strike may prove effective, and that the railroads may be compelled to make concessions whether they will or no. Many hundreds of trains have been cancelled and service is constantly being curtailed. It is only a question of time until service will be demoralized. It is well that the president has intervened, because the indications are that the Labor board is unable to settle the trouble. The president may be expected to overlook the technical issues and go to the justice of the positions taken by the opposing forces. Efficacy of the arbitration feature of the transportation act will temporarily become of secondary importance in comparison with a settlement of the strike on an equitable basis.

AN OBNOXIOUS LAW

According to the law of Kansas, the coal and railroad shopmen's strikes are illegal in that state. A statute prohibits strikes in essential industries. It is administered through what is known as the industrial court. The shop workers asked their sympathizers to put up placards of sympathy, and this was held by the industrial court to be a violation of law.

William Allen White, editor of the Emporia Gazette, placed one of these placards in the window of his newspaper, and defied the court as well as his old friend Governor Henry Allen, who ordered his arrest. Mr. White stood his ground until arrested and then reluctantly removed the placard. In his statement the editor said he would observe the law, although in his opinion it constituted a violation of free speech and free press.

There will be much regret if a test is not to be made of this obnoxious and tyrannical law. There can hardly be a question that it is a violation of the right of free speech and free press and hence unconstitutional. The American people certainly have a right to hold and express opinions on controversies between employers and employees. They have a right to express their opinions on strikes. An attempt to deny this right would leave the guarantees of the constitution futile and meaningless. We have not turned to the despotism of either autocratic or communistic government in this country, but out in Kansas they appear to have undertaken the experiment.

Under the law in that state Editor White is prohibited from expressing the belief in his paper, or otherwise, that the shopmen who have quit work were justified in doing so. Whether his belief is correct or incorrect is of no consequence. His fundamental right to opinion is involved, and that right is denied him. If he says what he thinks he violates the law and is subject to arrest and imprisonment. Such a law is repulsive to the American sense of fairness and it is clearly an abrogation of constitutional liberties of the people. It is to be hoped Editor White will make a test case of his arrest, for so long as the law stands it is subversive of popular rights and a cloak for gross injustice.

STATE OPERATION OF MINES

It appears that under the constitution the government has no power to take over and operate the coal mines. This industry has been held by the courts to be an intra-state business, strictly within the jurisdiction of the states. The inability of the federal government to act has prompted the president to appeal to the governors of the coal producing states to give the operators protection in the reopening of the mines. It seems, however, that this protection will not be sufficient to restore production. Mine workers are standing their ground and the mines cannot very well be operated without men to work them. Where these men are to come from is not yet clear, for it requires certain experience to be able to mine coal, even if unskilled labor is to be had.

The latest plan is to have the government of the various states take over the mines and bring about state operation. The governor of Michigan has already applied to the president for this authority, obviously unaware of the fact that he has the power in his own hands. It is held that states under the plan would have the right to negotiate wage scales with unions and that in all probability an understanding would be reached at an early date for the return of the men and a resumption of coal mining on an extensive scale. State operation would on the surface seem to be not only feasible, but the only way which offers a prospect of breaking the deadlock, and its development will be watched with interest by the public, which is becoming gravely apprehensive as to where its supply of coal for next winter is to come from.

Suffrage in Europe

Woman suffrage has swept over European countries with amazing rapidity since 1918, and today the nations that do not admit women to vote and hold office on equal terms with men are in the minority. Spain, France, Greece, Yugoslavia and Bulgaria have not yet conceded the concession. In Italy and Portugal the suffrage proposals have progressed part way toward enactment and been blocked by recalcitrant legislative bodies. Switzerland hangs back awaiting a popular referendum. And Belgium admits women to the ballot and of freeholding only in respect to municipal affairs.

With these exceptions, the map of Europe is pretty much covered with countries in which women may vote or occupy places in Parliament on a virtual equality with men. While in England a woman must be thirty before she can vote, already two women are sitting in the House of Commons. In Sweden women voted for the first time last fall and five women were elected deputies in the national assembly. Denmark has eleven women in the Riksdag. Norway has one in the cabinet, and Finland has had women in Parliament for several years. Germany has thirty women in the Reichstag. In all these nations, and in Austria, Russia, Hungary, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Holland, women are nominally a par with men in political matters.—BOSTON TRAVELER.

Done For Our Comfort

A news item tells us that a "double" for Marion Davies, movie star had a serious mishap while doing a dangerous stunt in the filming of "When Knighthood Was in Flower." This is really interesting.

But, we are hereby advised that some of these danger stunts seen in movies are the genuine article. Most of us had supposed that all this was taken care of by the "tricks of photography." We are sure it can be done by trick work, and because of this assumed that such is the way they always do it. There is no good sense in risking neck and limb when the stunt can be done without taking chances.

Second, we learn that at least they don't risk their star's neck in filming these stunts. They keep a "double" for this purpose. Anyway, it is pleasing to be advised that we don't have to worry over the possible maiming of the heroine; somebody may get killed, but they won't call the coroner for her.

The movies tell us in this bit it is all for our own comfort and peace of mind. We guess it is all right, but we do hope the "double" gets a living wage, even if he can't be expected to live long.—DECATUR REVIEW.

Floristry

A new science—or art—is called "floristry." It is the skillful arrangement of flowers. A five-day school in this subject has been conducted in New York, with nineteen students, among whom were members from Texas, Kansas, Indiana, California and South Africa.

Fashions, it seems, have changed greatly in flowers of late. The young men no longer tries to make a show of extravagance with his girl, but of good taste. "Twenty years ago," said the teacher, "roses and carnations were the only flowers considered proper for wedding decorations. Today you see great use of hardy perennials and flowers that can be got for much less. Funeral flowers are no longer chosen for their gloomy effect, but with the idea of cheering the bereaved with their brightness."—BUTTE POST.

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Noted Physician and Author

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writers' names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual case cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

The Extent of the Annual Inventory

Good health is good business. Speculation in symptoms doesn't pay the speculator, however, profitable this great indoor sport may be for the affable, sociable and often very religious charlatans. The sum squandered annually by the American and Canadian people on wildcat health and healing ventures, plausible nostrums, both medicinal and nonmedicinal, in the attempt to catch up or to suppress symptoms of unknown import, would build and equip the world's navy.

In order to save the gullible layman from himself, and incidentally to try what a little timely prophylaxis can do for candidates for Bright's disease, diabetes, cancer, hardening of the arteries, heart muscle failure, apoplexy and other diseases which are preventable only by personal methods, sociologists and sanitarians of late years urged people to get the habit of having an annual physical examination made, as well as a personal or business inventory. Physicians, curiously enough, have neither encouraged this movement nor offered any too warm a welcome for the unsick patron seeking such periodic examination. There is a hiatus or gap in the arrangements somewhere. We have eye specialists, baby specialists, woman specialists, man specialists, nerve specialists, skin specialists, etc., etc., all or each duly designated and recognized, but there's no such thing as a specialists in hygiene in the prevailing medical custom. The medical profession is rather morbid and preverbal about this; you've got to be sick before you can consult a specialist, if you please. It is all very well to preach fine sentiments about the "early recognition" of this and that preventable disease, but at the same time there's nobody particularly aptly qualified and equipped to make the early recognition, even if you seek it. Some provision should be made in the present scheme of things for specialists in hygiene, experts on health for people who seek expert advice, practitioners of private character who might be called prophylacticians.

From many inquiries I gather that many good people are already in the habit of having an annual physical examination made and deriving no benefit therefrom. These people receive impressive, but mostly insignificant "reports" of the various tests and investigations made, and then they practically holler down the rainbarrel to know what they should do about it. Frenzied physical examinationism, we'll call it. And it costs a pretty penny, too.

The man or woman over 30 is wise to have an annual overhauling, whether for life insurance or just self conservation. Such an examination is best made by an ordinary physician, the family doctor preferably, who can decide at any time whether any special investigation or test is necessary.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Springing the Ear

Please tell me what to use for washing ears. I tried springing with soap and water but it didn't remove the wax.—D. C.

Answer—Soap and water is used rather for washing behind the ear, and is fairly efficacious for this purpose. For removing hardened plugs of wax dissolve a tablespoonful of saleratus in a quart of water comfortably warm. Hang the fountain syringe not more than two feet about the ear. Direct the stream into the ear canal, but do not insert the nozzle. Catch the outflow in a basin. This usually brings away the masses. Never insert any object in the ear. If the syringing fails, go to a physician.

Cotton Seed Oil

Please give me your opinion of using cotton seed oil for "cleansing an old hide." There is no drugstore here and it is difficult to obtain the ingredients for making cold cream.—A. B. S.

Answer—It may be all right, but I have no experience or knowledge of its use. I should advise you not to attempt to make cold cream, but to send to a good pharmacy and have any desired quantity, say four ounces, made up fresh for you, according to the formula for ointment of rose water (cold cream). The B. P. formula is: B. P.—formulations which every drugstore has.

For the Red Nose

At the request of numerous readers the following formula for a lotion for a red nose is reprinted:

Zinc sulphate One dram
 Potassium sulphate One dram
 Rose Water Three ounces
 Shake the mixture well, and apply each night by dabbing upon the nose with the fingers. Allow it to dry and wash it off next morning. Use it for ten days or so, then omit it for a week or more and resume the use, as required.

Effect of Suffocation
 Our little girl aged 3 was playing in a sand bank when it caved in and she was buried by the sand, and it was a good five minutes before she was dug out, given a drink of water and sponged with cold water. Her face swelled, and blood spots broke out all over her face and head. Today she appears all right, the spots are not gone yet. Is there any danger of after effects? Or of sand being in her lungs?—Mrs. P. A. C.

Answer—Such spots appear about the skin in suffocation. They will probably fade completely in a few weeks. If the child has not other trouble now it is probable that no sand got into her lungs.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Monday, July 26, 1897

S. R. Wagg was in Chicago on business. Miss Caddie Dezelotte of Milwaukee was visiting Appleton friends.

Miss Maude Sherry left for Seymour on a several days visit with friends.

Judge James H. McGillion of Marinette was visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James McGillion. Mr. Stella Tanner returned from a several months' visit with relatives in Indiana.

Louis Rossmel and Fred J. Rogers left for Chicago on a tandem.

Mrs. J. W. Humphrey of Chicago was a guest in the family of her son, J. W. Humphrey, Jr.

Miss Gertrude Jones was visiting Miss Carolyn Dodge at Menasha.

John W. Thelkens left for Roseland, B.C., and expected to visit Klondyke, Alaska, before returning.

Miss Elizabeth Wilson returned from a three weeks' visit at Lake Geneva and Chicago.

Among those who attended the funeral of Robert McMillen at Oshkosh were Prof. H. A. Jones, John McNaughton, Dr. and Mrs. E. Stansbury and J. H. Whorton and daughters.

John A. Rose of Chicago was visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Rose.

Miss Ida Schabok, 13, died the previous Saturday evening at her home in the town of Center.

Robert McMillen of Oshkosh left an estate of $400,000. Among his legacies was one for $25,000 for Lawrence university.

The plant of the Badger Paper Co. at Kaukauna was destroyed by fire the night previous.

Resume of American and Foreign Newspaper Opinion

FRANCE AND THE SARRE

Rome—The FAEBE protests against French rule in the Sarre district, in principle, is safeguarded by the League of Nations. It says:

"The French manoeuvres in the Sarre, tending to annex this rich province have become extraordinarily active in the last weeks because of the disorder into which they have thrown this district and the agitation which it causes in the rest of Germany. As the French did not succeed in introducing the annexation of the Sarre into the Versailles Treaty, they are trying to obtain it now by violence, which is very easy for them as they have the civil administration of the country in their hands, in reality an absolute government. The presumption of the French government has even gone so far as to ask the German government to recognize its right to represent the inhabitants of the Sarre in other German provinces. So that, for instance, an inhabitant of Trier, who happened to be in Berlin would not be under German jurisdiction, but under that of the French Consul.

"French historians and pseudo-historians are making all sorts of intellectual gymnastics to prove the historic right of France to the Sarre, which rights are all founded on Napoleon's conquest. But, under these conditions France might just as well annex Holland, Belgium, and a large part of Italy, Germany, and Switzerland. The historians who now recall the plebiscite ordered by Napoleon in the Sarre in 1802 might as well say Brussels, Antwerp, Cologne, Geneva and Turin were French, as they too had to submit to similar plebiscites under the first empire.

"The arguments of the French economists are not more convincing than those of the historians. It is true they say that the Sarre basin formed the south part of it with Lorraine, it is only natural that they should have the rest of the Sarre.

"We might answer that as the most important part of the mines and the factories are not in Lorraine, but in the Sarre, they ought to give up Lorraine to the Germans so as not to break up the unity of the basin.

"But these French discussions would only be amusing if it were not that they are engendering a very dangerous atmosphere in this district. In consequence of the passive compliance of the League of Nations, which, according to the treaty, ought to govern the Sarre, the country is ruled by the French who, as Rathenau declared in his speech the day before his assassination, hold it in a state of untrained absolutism. Carrying little for the Versailles Treaty, they have French troops in the Sarre; French police; they have introduced the French monetary system (which composed in a way a new French colony) and ruined the country economically on account of the enormous difference in the exchange; they have Frenchified the schools; and by means of their police they terrorize any inhabitants suspected of not having French sympathies.

"This work of invasion and oppression is quietly tolerated by the commission nominated by the Council of the League of Nations, a commission in which there ought to be one Frenchman, but which in reality is composed in a way of a Franco-French instrument in the hands of the French Nationalists. The latter have obtained that the presidency of the commission which was entrusted to M. Raue, the well-known chauvinist, and Dr. Hektor a German racist, who before the war was removed from his position as mayor of Sarrelouis because of his sympathies for France, occupies the seat reserved by the law for a native of the Sarre. The other two are occupied by the Belgian, Lambert, known as a pro-French military fanatic, by the Dane, Moltke, a fashionable gentleman and race horse proprietor who has spent nearly all his life in Paris, and finally by a Canadian, Waugh, who would be the only impartial member of the commission but who neither knows the country nor a word of German.

"Such is the justice of the Council of the League of Nations which is an accomplice to the crimes which are going on in the Sarre. Crimes which call attention to, not out of justice—overbroad knowledge that justice has become an empty word—but because this attitude in the Sarre is engendering germs for future wars, ruining Germany more and more, involving the general ruin of Europe. Among the most alarming symptoms is the progressive decrease in coal production, which in the last three months has decreased from 331,000 tons to 200,000. So that the German in Austria are obliged to buy British coal, which of course makes the prices rise.

"Nothing is more tragically absurd than this work of systematical ruin of Germany, when all the governments agree that the economic restoration of Germany is indispensable to European reconstruction. But the passive complicity of the League of Nations in this work of destruction must not be forgotten, which for this ruining the world receives an annual emolument of 400,000 francs.

IN ALL LOAN TALK AMERICA

Paris—Discussing prospective loans to end the existing economic crisis the financial editor of L'OEUVRE says:

"There is question of issuing a loan in the different countries having available funds which would be guaranteed by Germany and the proceeds of which would be set apart for settling the reparations. By this means Germany would gain time and France secure a part of the necessary capital for reconstruction.

"The idea is excellent and it seems to be approved everywhere. It must however be practicable. It is after all not a question of putting theories down on paper but chiefly of finding available funds. Who is going to subscribe the necessary capital and on what conditions? This is the essential question.

"And all those who try to answer this question after having mentioned the neutrals and England come to America. For it is really America who has the key to the situation.

"It may be interesting to examine the American point of view on this question of an individual loan. We purposely say the Americans for today it is with the individual American, the man in the street, that we have to do. Times have changed since the war. Formerly governments could grant loans without consulting the people. Today it is not at all the same thing. And we must realize that the conditions made to us by the American bankers will be the same which their subscribers demand from them before giving them their money.

"Thus if we examine the American point of view we see at once that it is not so easy to interest the simple citizen of the United States in our reconstruction. There is first of all a fundamental difficulty, little known in Europe and not easily appreciated because it arises from a different mentality than ours. The American does not like bonds or state papers, mostly he prefers shares. In this immense industrial country each little town has its own business concerns. The directors and the employees as well as the simple citizens of the town are shareholders.

"State papers, especially foreign ones, are much more complicated, and they don't so easily put their faith in them.

"Besides this, America is very different to England for instance. She has no wish to extend her borders so she falls back upon herself—her body is large enough—and tries to develop still more her immense resources.

"America has not the same need to help continental Europe as has England. It is true she has suffered much from the industrial crisis, but this is already less serious. A year ago there were a million unemployed in the United States, now there are not more than four hundred thousand. In some industries there is even almost a boom at the present time. The metallurgy, and the motor trade have numbers of new orders. And quantities of new houses are springing up from the earth in suburbs of the great towns. In short prosperity is returning, and prosperity sometimes makes one selfish.

"This does not mean that we must despise America. On the contrary. But in the first place we must not exaggerate the 'splendid isolation' of the United States. If it is the fact, that industry can do without European markets, it is not the same with agriculture. For in the United States industry finds markets in South America, in Asia and Australia, agriculture on the contrary, only meets with competitors there. Europe alone remains as a market for her superfluous corn, cotton and frozen meat. It is not in the interest of the American farmer, who after all is the prototype of the famous Uncle Sam, to let Europe sink into marasmus. If this is clearly explained to him, he will understand.

"Another reason for optimism is that the Wall street bankers have realized all there is to gain in placing foreign loans in America. Therefore they have already begun what is perhaps the greatest financial publicity campaign which has ever existed. In order to place the shares of the last foreign loan in Wall street they sent their messengers in the quickest motor cars to the furthest borders of Texas and California.

"Little by little they will change the mentality of the immense 'middle class', heads of firms, employees, farmers, commercial travelers. But at last they will not be told for nothing that European affairs are too uncertain. This is what explains the attitude of many American bankers towards European political problems.

"Are their fears, their objections, and their reproaches founded? That is another question. But it must be clearly understood that very great effort is needed to convince the Americans of our certain recovery and that they are sufficiently able to enable you to make the identification.

"Q. Of what denomination are the people who give the Passion Play at Oberammergau? J. J. K.
 A. The Bavarian villagers who give this celebrated Passion Play are Roman Catholics.

"Q. What percentage of the immigration to Canada is from the United States? G. K. N.
 A. Since the first of the year, the United States has furnished about half of the newcomers in Canada. The total is made up of 4,528 British, 8,019 Americans, and 4,227 from other countries.

"Q. Are trees more apt to be struck by lightning when it is raining? H. M. D.
 A. During thunder showers trees become drenched with rain. According to some authorities, the more thoroughly wet the tree is, the less susceptible it becomes to lightning strokes.

"Q. What metal is absolutely nonporous that can be used for cooking utensils? P. L.
 A. The Bureau of Standards says that no metal is absolutely nonporous. Such ones as aluminum, tin and iron are sufficiently nonporous for use in the manufacture of cooking utensils.

"Q. What privileges are granted when a British subject is honored with knighthood? G. T.
 A. The conferring of knighthood in Great Britain does not imply any privileges other than the social one of precedence. A knight ranks next after a baronet. Neither dignity nor title can be transmitted to the heirs.

"Q. Please give the recipe for chocolate cream frosting for cake? A. D.

War Takes The Rest

The first man killed in the World War was Corporal Jules Peugeot, a Frenchman. A monument to him is unveiled with elaborate ceremonies.

Jules was 21 years old, in the flower of his manhood, when a German bullet carried him into eternity. He was typical of the toll of war—youth, promising, ambitious, "the best of the lot."

That is the kind of meal the war god loves. Biologists tell you that war makes a nation stronger in the long run. False! War always takes the best.

Clever European lecturers visit us, with the attitude of children inspecting a zoo. They return home. Asked what they think of prohibition in America, they crack the old stale vaudeville jokes, such as, "When do they begin enforcing it?"

Dr. Robert Herod, a wise Swiss who imagines nothing but facts, has been looking us over. He returns home and tells the reporters of his country that he saw only two drunken persons during his two-month's tour of our country.

When you imagine that prohibition is a failure, look about you; then summon up in memory the drunkards of old saloon days.

Is it safe to take a trip in a flying machine? You would think so, if you flew 1,750,000 miles and came out alive. That is what our air mail has done in the last 13 months with no fatalities. Incidentally, it carried 49,000,000 letters.

In the previous year, 17 were killed carrying mail by airplane. Flying is getting safer. That is more important than news about faster flying. The airplane will become popular only as it is made safer.

Twelve million steps have been climbed by George B. Herrick. He is the night watchman at the Continental Mills, in Lewiston, Mass. For 25 years he has climbed steps and "rung in" clocks.

Think of George when your job seems monotonous. We are all in much the same boat.

Here's a woman who celebrates her 99th birthday by taking her usual daily ride in one of these bath tubs that are attached to motor cycles. She is Mrs. Hannah Matteson, of Hope Valley, Rhode Island.

People who are on the verge of surrendering to old age can learn from Mrs. Matteson that age is mainly a matter of viewpoint. It is largely in the heart. Think youthful thoughts, do youthful things, and you'll never be really old. That probably was how Noah kept his self chipper and spry until he died at the age of 950.

For years we have all been moaning about "the old caken bucket that hung in the well." Quarters have advertised the famous old bucket until most of us have it indelibly in our brains as a symbol for pure, refreshing drinking water.

Now comes the Connecticut state board of health and warns that wells with an old caken bucket are germ-polluted, and about as fit to drink from as a swamp. Most of our sentimental ideals would be unmasked the same way if we gave them sound analytical thought.

He is not considered out of danger but is resting comfortably. Physicians attending him still have the case under observation to determine the extent of the injuries to his head.

Make Every Member Of Family Work To Keep Within $2,600 Salary

Here is a Woman Who Saves Money on $2,600 and Raised Family of Three Children—Has Helpful Hints.

Here is a way to get along on $2,600 a year, which one woman has found successful. There are five in her family to feed and she does her work without too much effort. This is what she says:

Dear Editor: After your children get to be eight or more, the necessity for having much of your work done outside the home is eliminated. The best heritage which you can give children is the ability to work hard and without grumbling. From the time my boys were eight, they had certain chores to do which eliminated much of my time taking work.

I am the mother of three boys, two of whom are in college and the third in high school. There is very little work about the house which they cannot do and everyone of them says that he is mighty proud of his ability. The first task which my boys learned to do was to wash dishes and that three times a day. I taught them to make beds, sweep, help with the washing, scrub floors and like tasks as they became older. Each boy had his after school tasks until he was old enough to work outside the home.

BOYS ALWAYS WORKED
Now, the reason that my boys all have educations is that they earned them. The first working step for an American boy is either a paper route or a magazine business. My boys have done both. As soon as they were in high school they started to earn all their spending money and part of their clothes. My husband and I decided that we would not afford the entertainment for "dates" for our boys and we never have. When the boys were out of work, they were welcome to food and shelter, but no spending money. Needless to say they were almost never out of work.

Each summer the boys went to work and a part of their money was put away for school time. When they finished high school, they were given $1,000 with which to go to college, but it was given them in $250 amounts. The rest they earned for themselves, including their clothes. The tales of their working adventures would fill a book and the best part of it is that they come home to tell all their little difficulties to their dad and me.

My husband has never had $2,600 a year until lately when he reached the $3,000 mark. My household expenses have been small because I have taught my family to be satisfied with well cooked common food. I make my own clothes usually and my husband's shirts because he likes it. Perhaps our biggest expenditure outside actual maintenance is for advancement, books, magazines and such. My husband and I go to lectures and concerts constantly, but I am afraid that we know very little about the movies. My whole philosophy of running a house is to make every member of the family do more than his share of the work and get more than his share of inspiration and entertainment. It works very well. I doubt if there have ever been happier, more manly boys than mine, and they have worked hard for what they got.

A Mother.

Flivvers Not In Vogue For Gypsy Bands

Three automobiles loaded with gypsies passed through Appleton Sunday on their way to the northern Wisconsin woods. Forde? Never! One family had a Cadillac, another a Stutz and a third a Hudson touring car.

The baby in one car was carried in a hammock slung from the top.

Make Your Own Test of the Victrola

PROSPECTIVE buyers of the Victrola are urged to hear as many instruments as possible. We want them to test for themselves the differences in tone. We leave the judgment to them. They can distinguish the relative musical and reproducing qualities. After all, the true test of a talking machine is not physical appearance but tone. Happily the genuine Victor Victrola has won a world wide reputation for beauty of design and tone, and lifelike fidelity of musical reproduction.

MEXICAN PAPERS ATTACK BULL FIGHT

Mexico City—The future of bullfighting in Mexico is not as certain as its most ardent devotees would wish as the result of a series of newspaper and other attacks against it as the the national sport.

Protests that the spectacles are "barbarous and uncivilized" have been frequently expressed by contributors to local newspapers and the Council of Culture and Arts recently engaged in heated debate over their continuation. At the last session of congress a bill was introduced in the lower house asking for the abolition of bullfights but it was pigeon-holed and never came up for discussion. Assurance is given, however, that the bill will be revived at the next session of Congress opening in September with absolute certainty that it will be called up for debate.

Several clubs and societies in Mexico City have gone on record as opposed to the sport and all protestants are finding a ready champion in the newspaper EL UNIVERSAL whose editor, Felix F. Palavicini, is unalterably against it. On the contrary, Rafael Alducin, editor of EXCELSIOR, is one of the most enthusiastic followers of the games.

More Automobiles Than Telephones In County

Survey Shows Outagamie County Farmers Enjoy All Modern Conveniences

That a great number of farmers believe in having the same modern home conveniences that their city brethren enjoy is seen by the farm survey conducted by Mrs. Genevieve Collier Lindahl, until recently supervising teacher in Outagamie-co. The statistical survey is one of a number of charts that will be exhibited at the supervisors convention at Madison Aug. 22 to 24.

According to the survey, every second farmer in the county owns an automobile. Two out of every five have telephones. One-fifth of the farm homes have electric lights or acetylene gas, one-third have motor power washing machines and one-ninth have furnaces installed.

The county farmers directory lists about 5,800 farmers in the county. Mrs. Lindahl's survey shows 2,126 autos on farms, 309 milking machines, 1,710 registered cows, 727 blooded hogs, 3,772 pure bred poultry. Homes with electric lights are given as 537 and 563 with acetylene gas, 1,339 with motor washers, 2,485 with automobiles, 2,006 with telephones and 662 with furnaces.

The survey was conducted in the 123 districts of the 20 towns in the county. The report also shows about 60 miles of cement roads and 33 churches in rural districts. Ellington leads all towns for the number of pure bred hogs, the number being 198. Black Creek leads as to electric lights and motor driven washers, the former being 185, the latter 152. Maple Creek leads with its 609 pure bred cows and 4,400 pure bred poultry. Grand Chute is highest with its 203 telephones and 15 miles of concrete road, while Seymour is first with its 255 silos, 231 automobiles and second with its 74 miles of paved road.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Vyinda and family of Stevens Point and Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Vyinda of Amherst are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Berga.

By merely filling out the coupon in this advertisement and taking it to any one of the druggists listed below you may receive a full-sized 10-cent tube of Listerine Tooth Paste—a very superior dentifrice made for you by the makers of Listerine.

It makes tooth-brushing a pleasure

Give this original fruit acid dentifrice a thorough, conscientious trial. Note what a clean, fresh feeling it leaves about the mouth and teeth. And see how much brighter and whiter your teeth will gleam than they ever did before.

"It makes your mouth water"

When you brush your teeth with Listerine Tooth Paste you will at once notice how it makes your mouth water. This is because it contains the wholesome acid elements of four delicious fruits—apple, orange, grapes and grapefruit.

These mild fruit acids stimulate an extra flow of tooth-protecting alkaline saliva which Nature provides to fight conditions that start tooth decay.

Soapy dentifrices cannot do this because they are necessarily alkaline instead of acid. They discourage Nature in her effort to preserve tooth-health and lead you to unnecessary discomfort, unsightly teeth and needless dental bills.

And a safe cleansing agent

Besides its mild fruit acids together with the healing oils that have made Listerine itself so popular and safe an antiseptic for the last half century, Listerine Tooth Paste contains exactly the correct polishing ingredient. It is a non-gritty cleanser—just hard enough to remove the daily accumulations of tartar; but not so hard as to injure the tooth enamel. You know this paste is doing its work—yet doing it safely.

Redeem your coupon this week!

Be sure to hand your druggist the coupon below this week. This offer is in effect only one week.

Secure your free full-sized 10-cent tube and enjoy the pleasure and satisfaction of really clean teeth—teeth made clean both scientifically and safely.

We are sure this trial will convince you and that thereafter you will want no other tooth paste than Listerine Tooth Paste—the original fruit acid dentifrice.

Be sure to call for your free tube this week!

CHAPTER I
It was because of dainty, little Patricia Drake, who was seated opposite him in his private office, that Attorney John Wells had telephoned to Police headquarters and summoned a tall, dark-haired young man with the respectful but bored manner of a son of the elect.

"Sergeant Miles. You sent for me?"

John Wells gave him a swift glance of appraisal and with a gesture indicated not only his youthful feminine client but a vacant chair facing the cold light of early spring.

"Miss Drake, this is Sergeant Miles. I should advise you to be as frank with him as you have with me. Be seated here, Sergeant. If you please."

The detective took the chair indicated, and the young girl drew a quick, convulsive breath.

"How—how do you do? I would have consulted an alienist rather than my father's attorney had it not been for the fact that I feel I am not lost, am still sane, Sergeant Miles. Do you know anything about psychology?"

"Psychology" from a big-eyed, eighteen-year-old kind? Owen Miles, university graduate pauperized by his father's mining operations and member of the Police Department through an innate passion for criminology, pricked up his ears, repressed a smile and replied gravely: "A little, Miss Drake. Enough, I think, for practical purposes."

It was John Wells' turn to conceal surprise at the cultivated, veiled accents of this most extraordinary emissary from Headquarters, but the girl merely hesitated a moment and then spoke in a quick little rush.

"Then perhaps you can understand why, with no sanity in the family, three dignified, middle-aged gentlemen, brothers, should suddenly become victims of the wildest hallucinations, like—like three Mad Hatters, and do such queer, ridiculous things that they are the talk of the town?" There was a hint of tears in her voice. "I suppose this will seem disrespectful when I tell you that it is of my father and my two uncles I am speaking, but it is the truth."

"What sort of hallucinations have they, Miss Drake?"

"Perhaps," the attorney interposed in his urbane, well-rounded tones. "It will be well for me to tell you a little of Miss Drake's family. She is the daughter of Hobart Drake, a New York Stock Exchange. His wife died when Miss Patricia, here, was born, and she was brought up by his maiden sister, Miss Jerusha Drake, a lady of the soundest practical common-sense. They have always lived in the old family residence out on Long Island; at Brook-lee."

Owen Miles nodded quickly without speaking, and the attorney went on:

"Five years ago Roger Drake, the oldest of the family and a scientist of worldwide reputation, returned from Europe to the old home at Brooklee and a few months since the other brother, Andrew, came back from Australia—where he had amassed a fortune in sheep-ranching. You can see that the three brothers are widely dissimilar in character and temperament, yet a very great affection has always existed between them. I have known them all since they were mere boys and I can speak from personal observation.—Pat," Wells turned to the young girl, "did all three exhibit the symptoms at the same time?"

"No. Poor father was the first to break out." Her lips quivered. "People put the most—most scandalous construction on it, connected with the wine cellar and I know that it wasn't true!"

"For the past month or two I have fancied that father was worried about something. I don't think very seriously about it until that dreadful time a fortnight ago when in the middle of the night we were all awakened by a loud knocking on the front door and finally Carter, the butler, went down and opened it."

"I was leaning over the balustrade, and what do you think I saw? Our local policeman, Sam Clark, was bringing in a stout figure, dressed all in flowing white like a ghost, that reeled as it walked. I've brought Mr. Hobart home, Carter, Sam said. 'I'd get him to bed real quiet, but in the morning you tell him if it happens again we'll have to confiscate what he's got left in his cellar.'"

"He was down in front of the soldiers' monument," Sam explained, "rigged out in these here bed-sheets, and spouting like a Fourth of July orator that he was Julius Caesar. Lucky it was so late or he'd have had the whole town 'round him. Soon's I touched him he seemed to sort of collapse and he came alone home without any trouble. He'll likely be all right in the morning."

Patricia had given an unconscious graphic imitation of the country constable, but as she paused and covered her face with her hands there was nothing of amusement in the expressions of either of her hearers.

"Did you get a closer view of your father, Miss Drake?" the latter asked after a moment.

"Yes. I heard a sort of gasp behind me and turned to find Uncle Roger there, staring down at father with such a shocked horrified expression that I thought he was going to have a stroke or something. We stood watching them bring father upstairs."

"And where was your other uncle, Mr. Andrew Drake, during this time?"

"He was—sleeping through it."

all," Patricia paused. "He was awfully jolly and the next morning he tried to make light of it, but when he learned how really ill father was he was terribly worried."

"Your father was seriously ill, then?"

"Yes. It was a week before he went to his office in Wall Street and he hasn't gone to the village once.—I don't blame him!" Her small gloved hands clenched on the arms of her chair. "The things that were said and the horrid jokes that have been made! I was ashamed before—but it is even worse now!"

"You mean that your uncles have exhibited similar signs of—eccentricity?" the detective asked.

Patricia nodded. "Not exactly similar, but they have done things that it seems to me only people whose minds were deranged would do.—And Aunt Jerusha's attitude is the most inexplicable of all!"

"My dear Pat!" John Wells exclaimed. "You cannot mean that she also—"

"Oh, no. Aunt Jerusha hasn't gone crazy, too, but she insists that there is nothing wrong. When I suggested an alienist this morning she was angrier than I have ever seen her."

"Nothing more happened for the first week after father's strange attack except that Uncle Roger seemed to grow more deeply troubled. He had promised to give a lecture on archaeology at the high school last Wednesday. If I had any known."

"Was the lecture not given?"

"It was! Bitterness sharpened her soft, girlish tones. "And the next day the village was talking worse than it had over father's behavior! Sergeant Miles, that lecture was the most hideous travesty imaginable! Had it been sheer drivel it wouldn't have been so bad, but it was a clever satire, ridiculing the archaeological discoveries of recent years. The audience didn't know whether to laugh or to feel affronted at his insult to their intelligence."

"The next day no one told me anything until Mr. Grayle came over. It was awful!"

"Who is Mr. Grayle?" queried the detective.

"A neighbor, a naturalist," Patricia responded. "He and Uncle Roger have been great friends ever since he bought The Rose Tree, next to the Kemp estate—"

"He made none," she shrugged. "He looked dreadfully worn and ill, but he was as dignified as ever and merely said that he regretted his discourse had not met with the approval of his hearers. On Saturday when the paper came out there was a perfect furore; the editor intimated that the lecture was the work of a disordered mind and recalled father's oration before the soldier's monument, insinuating that they had both fallen victims to some strange aberration."

"I made up my mind I would come to see you today, and then when Uncle Andrew was found this morning—"

"Go on my child. Tell the Sergeant exactly what you told me."

"Early this morning, Edward, the houseman found Uncle Andrew sitting on the drawing room floor in his pajamas playing like a child with some ornaments which he had taken from the cabinet and mantle, and when he saw Edward he ran toward him on all fours growling as though he were pretending to be some kind of an animal! Edward has never gotten over being shell-shocked. This morning was the last straw and he gave immediate notice, so Aunt Jerusha sent me my aunt to engage another houseman, and a gardener."

That gave me my opportunity to come and consult Mr. Wells. She hesitated once more. "I don't know though, what she will say when she sees you, Sergeant."

"She need see in me only what she sent for—the new houseman," Sergeant Miles announced.

Patricia's blue eyes opened very wide.

"Oh, could you?" she breathed. "I want an assistant outside as well," interrupted the detective.

"You say that a gardener is needed, too?"

"You—you don't know any detective who is a gardener, too, do you?"

"I know the very man!" Sergeant Miles exclaimed with enthusiasm.

Patricia glanced from one serious face to the other.

"Then you don't think it is just that they're losing their minds, my father and—my uncles? You don't think my aunt will be the next to go and then—perhaps?"

She faltered once more but her meaning was unmistakable, and although the attorney was discreetly silent he laid one slim, blue-veined hand upon her arm reassuringly.

NATURE FACTS AND FREAKS

STRANGE SIGNAL SYSTEM

By Prof. M. J. Elrod
The American pronghorn antelope is approaching extinction. Only prompt and strenuous action can save it. Formerly roaming from the Saskatchewan to Mexico, and east of the Missouri River, it is now confined to a few hundred wild animals and a few more in enclosures.

Roving creatures, easily the swiftest runners on the continent, living mainly in the open, they have become easy prey for long range rifles when fleet footed enemies were easily outdistanced. Inquisitiveness and curiosity have doubtless been their undoing.

Even their remarkable signaling system has not saved them. Ernest Seton-Thompson has explained how, on approach of some strange object, the antelope through a set of muscles raises with a jerk the hairs on the white rump patches on either side.

This flash shines afar like a patch of snow, and the message is read by all who have noses to read, for with the flash of hair is liberated an odor of musk from a gland located in a patch of brown hair in the white bloom.

The flash is given and away they go. If the flash is not seen, their keen sense of smell carries the message over long distances. The antelope's defense having failed in protecting him from man, man himself must come forward, another his instinct to kill, and cease using the repeater, or the noble animal is doomed to death or a life behind a fence.

HOLY LAND TO HAVE ELECTRIC LIGHTING

Will Utilize Hydraulic Power of Jordan River Near Sea of Galilee

By Associated Press
Jerusalem—Much of the material that is to be used in the work of developing the hydraulic power of the falls of the Jordan near the Sea of Galilee, will be acquired from German firms. Their prices are said to be one-half those of British houses, and considerably below those of American bidders.

The plan includes the construction of a dam on the Jordan River at the point where it issues from the Sea of Galilee, a large storage reservoir, irrigation canals, and the installation of electric generating stations. American-Jewish organizations are said to be largely interested in the project.

The contract has been awarded to Pinhas Rutenberg, a Russian engineer, by the British government. Mr. Rutenberg is now in the United States seeking financial support for the project. The work will involve an expenditure of $10,000,000 and the employment of 8,000 men. The Russian contractor also will undertake to draw electric power from the Aila River to light the ancient city of Jaffa and the communities of Tel Aviv, Ramleh and Petach Tikvah. He is allowed two years in which to raise the capital and start operations.

MOST OF POLAND'S DEBT OWED TO U. S.

By Associated Press
Warsaw—Sixty five per cent of Poland's national debt is owed to the United States, according to the first budget of the new republic. The Polish debt to America total $183,000,000. In 1921, foreign debts to the amount of 7,000,000,000 marks were repaid.

Although the new budget of Poland, like that of every other country in Europe, shows a deficit, it reveals also a state revenue covering 90 per cent of the expenditure as against 30 per cent in 1921 and only 10 per cent in 1920.

The local press predicts a fair prospect of a budget balance during the current year and if this is accomplished a state bank will be established and a new national currency issued to replace the present artificial currency wished upon the country during the German occupation.

Two ministries of the government are already without a deficit, those of Trade and Commerce and Agriculture. The latter running a profit in 1921 of 12,000,000,000 marks.

Poland's 1922 budget is popularly called a "peace budget" only 18 per cent of its total being allotted to military expenditure, and rapid demobilization of the Polish forces reducing this item to one of the lowest army budgets in Europe.

HOW TO KEEP YOUR TEETH AT HOME

BY ETHELIND TERRY

Star of "The Music Box Revue," Whose Perfect Teeth Are Celebrated.

Why teeth leave home is a question being thoroughly investigated these days.

More than ever before we are interested in keeping our teeth with us to the end and in making them comfortable and happy in their surroundings.

This, because we know that aside from being unsightly and causing us pain, bad teeth are the cause of many diseases.

The entire beauty of the mouth depends on the teeth.

You may have a Cupid's bow or rosebud lips, but if you can't part them in the middle and reveal nice white teeth you can't call your mouth your beautiful feature.

A reliable dentist is your first aid. He should examine your teeth twice a year and see that all the cavities are promptly filled, and that the gums are in a healthy condition.

But the daily care, what really counts, is up to you. Remember to include in your diet a little coarse bread and some foods that require chewing. Then chew. That gives the molars a little healthy exercise and keeps them strong and fit.

Have a session night and morning with the toothbrush, and remember the scientific way to go about this is the up-and-down method, instead of the cross-country route. This enables the bristles to pass between the teeth.

After each meal, when you are alone, use dental floss to remove any particles of food that may have found a temporary lodging place in a molar. Left to its own devices, it may gather about it a few germs and start a little decay party.

Use a good antiseptic mouth wash twice a day. That will give any germs you may be harboring the incentive they need to disappear. Also, it will make the breath purer.

Extremes of temperature in food and drinks are very annoying to your enamel. So if you will remember not to alternate ice cream and hot coffee or hot soup and ice water your teeth will appreciate it.

I might add that if you will crack nuts with a nut cracker and not cut thread with your scissors, and not burden your teeth with these responsibilities, your liability to find yourself with a false plate will be lessened.

Blind Man Is Making Success As Gardener

Vancouver, B. C.—Distinguishing seeds and plants through a highly cultivated sense of touch, Arthur Gray, 60 years old, and totally blind, is a successful gardener or here.

Gray lost his sight in a foundry accident a few years ago. Undaunted, he turned to gardening. He taught his hands to do the work of eyes, telling him plants and their progress by feel. To guide himself about the garden he set up a system of guide wires.

Not only is Gray a gardener, but also a carpenter. Undaunted, he has just built a glass-enclosed greenhouse for his garden.

Adventures Of The Twins

"What do you wish me to do?" asked King Verdo when Nick had explained all about everything. "How can we find out whether this fellow, King Indig of the Diddyvers, is handsomer than I am? But personally I can't imagine anyone thinking that blue hair is good looking when there is someone around with a lovely long green beard like mine."

"Longhead the Wiseman has decided," said Nick.

"What did he decide?" asked Verdo, quickly.

"No one knows," answered Nick. "It's in a magic phonograph record that Nancy and I found."

"Well, where's the record?"

"It's back in King Indig's palace," Nick told him. "We can't play it for we haven't got the right needle to put on the phonograph."

"Where's the needle?" asked King Verdo.

"It's the third peg in the heel of your left shoe," said Nick.

"Well, I declare!" chuckled King Verdo. "I never heard anything so astonishing in my life."

The third peg in the left heel of my— Let's see! And he hauled up his foot over his knee to look.

"Why, it's gone!" he cried. "There's nothing but a hole!"

Nancy's sharp eyes saw something. She pointed to the lump of mud King Verdo had scraped off.

"There it is," she cried. "It's sticking in that."

Just then the lump of mud started to roll away.

"It must be Twelve Toes, the Sorcerer, again," said Nick. "He doesn't want you or King Indig to marry Princess Therna. He wants her himself. He's tried to stop us every way he could."

"The villain!" shouted King Verdo. "He can't practice his magic here. Let's be gone. We'll go to the Land of the Diddyvers at once and find out all about everything."

LUNCH MENUS

BY BERTHA E. SHAPLEIGH
This is the season for picnics and someone must always prepare a lunch.

Once was the time when a basket must be carried containing plates, spoons, and linen napkins, all of which had to be carried home.

Nowadays there are wonderful lunch boxes and baskets containing everything one could possibly need, and the automobile carries the burden.

Or the lunch is eaten by the roadside, in an attractive spot, while seated comfortably in the car.

For less fortunate people there are paper plates, cups, spoons, forks, tablecloths and napkins. Also paper containers, in which may be carried moist food, make it possible to have salads.

Patented bottles, now very cheap, will keep the coffee or tea hot and the ice water cold. With such equipment and a pasteboard box no one has to carry home anything.

WHAT YOU NEED
The one preparing the lunch needs oiled paper, or waxed paper, in which sandwiches, hard cooked eggs, cake, cookies or pickles may be wrapped and straws, to go with the grape juice or ginger ale.

It is wise to have three different types of sandwiches, one with meat or egg, one plain, and one sweet. Deviled eggs, each one wrapped in its own piece of paper, or plain boiled eggs with a little packet of salt and pepper mixed are always enjoyed.

When a fire is possible, the lunch may be varied in endless ways. Cakes, small pieces of steak to be broiled on a stick, and bacon make one happy just to think about them. Potatoes are a good accompaniment. Marshmallows to be toasted on a stick should not be forgotten.

Following are three suggested menus—one a cold, simple lunch, one hot, where a fire is possible, and one automobile lunch:

COLD MENU

Ham and Egg Sandwiches
(Slice of ham and chopped hard cooked egg, mixed with salad dressing)

Plain Brown Bread Sandwiches
Hard Boiled Eggs
Olives or Pickles
Small Sponge Cakes
Tea or Coffee (in patented bottle)

Fruit (whatever is available)
AUTOMOBILE MENU
Chicken Salad Sandwiches or
Chicken Salad and Buttered Rolls
Olives

Cut-up Fruit, Cakes, Candies
Hot Coffee or Tea Punch
HOT MENU
Chops and Bacon
(Allow two chops and three slices bacon to each person)

Rolls to Split and Toast Butter
Tomato and Chopped Cabbage Salad
Chocolate Layer Cake
Coffee
Marshmallows (to toast)

YOUR JOB

By Elizabeth Arnold
The war developed a wholesome respect in every field for workers. The armistice found business and industry overcrowded by women with little experience or training.

Necessity and the war pushed women overnight into positions of unexpected responsibility. During the financial depression many of these women have had to go back and begin ever again. This does not mean that women have lost the ground which they gained in new fields during the war.

Every one now realizes that daily bread is not a matter of sex but of dollars and cents, work not a matter of sex but of type. Doors will remain open on every side to the woman who is as well qualified as the man and who can give equal work for equal pay.

Today's word is ECCENTRIC.
It is pronounced e-sen-trik, with accent on the second syllable. The vowels are all short.

It means—singular, odd, not conforming to the popularly accepted standards of action.

It comes from the French eccentric, taken from the Low Latin word eccentricus, which came from two Greek words meaning "out of," and "center."

It's used like this: "He was known to be eccentric."

HOWARD DOWNS INDIANS, 4 TO 3, IN SHORT GAME

Game Called In Eighth Frame When Indians Are Unable To Resume Play

Visitors Start Battle With Ten Men and Two Are Taken Out—Howard Fans Fourteen—Sharp Fielding Helps Crutcher.

Appleton defeated Oshkosh here Sunday afternoon, 4 to 3, in a game that was called in the eighth inning because Oshkosh did not have enough men in uniform to continue playing after Mulliger, third baseman, was benched for disputing Umpire Stoegbauer's decision on a third strike. Manager Steinhilber of the Oshkosh team attempted to send Lambrecht, whom he had taken out in the third inning, back into the game, but Appleton objected and when the Indians were unable to resume play at the end of ten minutes the game was called.

Howard was in fairly good trim and kept the hard hitting Indians well in check. He struck out 14 batters, didn't give a walk and was touched for seven hits, including a home run by Bodus and a triple by Pohlman. Errors back of him put him in the hole a few times. Crutcher, who was on the hill for the invaders, wasn't quite so effective but was aided by sparkling support. Twice runners were cut off at the plate by excellent fielding. He struck out five Appleton men, walked four and gave four hits. Appleton had men on bases in every inning except the sixth.

TWO NEW MEN

Tesch, a Lawrence college student covered the first sack in creditable manner. He sent the ball out of the infield in two trips to the plate but failed to register a safe blow. Bergerino and Durain were the hitting stars, each getting two blows. Durain's two hits went for doubles. Smith, formerly of Menasha, played at third base. He was charged with one error in four chances.

Oshkosh started the scoring in the first inning on an error by Smith on Boettge's hopping grounder near the third base line and Pohlman's blow to the centerfield fence. The ball was lost in the grass and the Indian shortstop circled around to the third station before it was recovered. Howard fanned three enemies in the frame.

HIT CRUTCHER HARD

Crutcher was hit hard in his first appearance in the box and three runs were over the plate before he retired the side. Goodman worked him for three balls and then hustled a good one over the plate for two bases. Sorenson followed with a slow roller to Pohlman who threw to Mulliger in an attempt to catch Goodman at third but the play failed and all hands were safe. Bergerino whiffed but Durain slammed the ball to the right field fence for a double, scoring Goodman and Sorenson. Durain romped to third while Smith was being retired at first and then scampered home when Runke let one of Crutcher's shoots get away from him.

The visitors went scoreless in the second but Appleton sneaked another run across. Tesch started by flying out and then Shott singled to center. Howard was passed and on the fourth ball Runke threw over second base into center field allowing Shott to reach third. He scored while Wittne was retiring Goodman at first. Sorenson fanned to end the inning.

LOSE GOOD CHANCE

Appleton lost a splendid opportunity to score in the third because of splendid fielding. After Bergerino had lined out Durain slapped the ball against the right field fence for a double but was caught at the plate when he tried to score while Smith was being caught at first on a slow grounder to Boettge. The decision at plate was exceedingly close. At neither time three were again until the fifth when another run was cut off at the plate. Goodman was passed but was forced at second by Sorenson who got a life on a fielder's choice. He tried to score on Bergerino's long double into centerfield but a quick relay by Bodus and Pohlman caught him as he was sliding into the base. Durain was passed and stole second but Smith ended the inning by grounding out.

VISITORS SCORE AGAIN

Two hits and an error gave the hostilities a run in the sixth inning and for a few minutes things looked pretty equally. Goodman put Howard in a hole when he let Boettge's slow roller get away from him. Bodus followed with a scratch hit into right field but Boettge was held at second base. Pohlman bounced a hopper at Howard who threw Boettge out at first while Bodus was going to second. Stevenson followed with a solid blow to Sorenson and Bodus scored. The next two were easy outs. Wittne got as far as second in the seventh inning when his hit to center was fouled by Sorenson. Two were out at the time and nothing serious resulted. Sorenson got around as far as third in the home half of the inning. After Howard was thrown out, Goodman was passed only to be forced at second by Sorenson. Bergerino bounced a hit off Crutcher's shin, the ball rolling into right field and Sorenson pulled up at third where he was stranded when Durain grounded out.

Bodus opened the visitors' half of the eighth by cracking the ball over the right field fence for a home run. Pohlman and Stevenson fled out and then came Mulliger who stood at the plate with his bat on his shoulder while Stoegbauer called him out on strikes. He protested so vehemently and long that the ump's finally sent him to the bench and the Indians had to quit because they didn't have enough men to fill all the positions.

DALE IS VICTOR OVER FREEDOM BY COUNT OF 4 TO 0

Game is Played in Record Time of One Hour and Twenty-five Minutes

Dale's county leaguers handed the Freedom team a neat wallop in Sunday's game to the tune of 4 to 0. Not only was Freedom scoreless but was able to get only two hits off Piecheck, the Dale pitcher. From the fielding stand point the game was well played each team making but one error, and some sensational catches were made. Dale's runs were brought in by Marron, Peck, A. Witt and H. Cannon.

This was the probably the shortest game ever played in the county league the nine innings being finished in 1 hour and 25 minutes.

Piecheck for Dale is credited with 12 strike outs and allowed 2 hits while Nelson of Freedom struck out 7 and allowed 10 wallops.

CINCINNATI IS BEATEN IN FINAL GAME OF SERIES

Cincinnati—The Giants won the odd game in the series of five by beating the Reds on Sunday, 4 to 1. Ryan, pitching his third game of the series, was in fine form. Burns, who scored on two singles and an out in the first inning was the only Red to reach third base. Luque was hit hard in the three innings in which the Giants scored. Manager McGraw was confined to his hotel with a cold, but was able to leave for Pittsburgh with his team Sunday night. Score: New York 4 0 1 2 0 0 0 0—4 7 0 Cincinnati 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—1 7 1 Batteries: Ryan and Snyder; Luque and Hargrave.

CUBS WIN, 4-1

Chicago—Chicago won the series from Brooklyn on Sunday by taking the final game 4 to 1. Aldridge pitched a steady game, allowing the visitors five hits, two of which were bunched for their only run in the game. Schriver also worked well, but weakened in the fifth when the locals bunched four of their hits and won the game. Grimes' home run in the second inning had tied the count. Score: Brooklyn 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—1 5 0 Chicago 4 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—4 7 0 Batteries: Schriver, Marnaux and De Berry; Aldridge and O'Farrell.

Three Stars With Indians

TRIS SPEAKER

Tris Speaker is one of the greatest fielders the game has ever developed. One of the game's leading base runners and batmen, and better yet, a smart player at all times. Speaker has, since he assumed hold of the Cleveland club, proved himself one of the most successful managers in the history of the game. Speaker has personality, power and drive. He dominates the situation. A bad leg has kept Speaker from being at his best this year. When he is out of the lineup the Indians lack the fire that characterizes their usual game.

CHARLEY JAMIESON

He is the perfect fielder and a timely hitter. Charley Jamieson has developed into one of the best outfielders in the American League, despite the fact that his name doesn't break into print very often. Jamieson is very fast, a hard hitter and an excellent bunter. In the field he is a regular ball hawk, and in addition has a strong throwing arm.

STUFFY MCINNIS

Hortonville's County League team started off with a bang on the new schedule when it downed the Black Creek team Sunday at Hortonville by the score of 7 to 2. Followers of the winning outfit are singing the praises of their pitcher Rommel whose stellar mound work, fielding and hitting did so much to pack the contest away for Hortonville. Pocan of Kimberly has long been heralded as the circuit's best hurler but Hortonville fans are now willing to go the limit in backing up Rommel.

Hortonville started scoring in the initial inning when two runs were counted. Lash and Holer were the players to cross the pan. In the third frame Holer repeated the act and Lash duplicated in the fifth. The sixth inning was the banner one for Hortonville, three runs being registered, one each by Rogers, Ok and Rommel. Black Creek's tallying was done in the fourth inning, when Brunwald scored and was followed in a few minutes by Perry.

The feature of the game was the excellent mound work by the pitchers. Although Rommel had the edge on Brunwald. In addition to stellar hurling Rommel figured in a double play, and got two hits, one a three bagger and the other a double. Rogers, Klinger, and Brunwald were also credited with two base hits. Bramon of Black Creek struck out five men and allowed one walk. Rommel struck out six and allowed one walk.

B. AND J. TEAM WINS TWO GAMES ON SUNDAY

The Behnke and Jenne baseball team scored two wins Sunday afternoon, defeating the Sherman Place Cardinals 14 to 5 and the Neenah Cardinals 5 to 3. Both games were played in Interlake park. Myafek, pitching for the B. and J. team struck out 11 Cardinals in the first game. McGuire allowed only four hits in the second game of the afternoon. Next Sunday the B. and J. squad will play the Hollandtown team at Brandt park. Klundt and Aehman will be the local battery.

Kaukauna 4, Fond du Lac 1.
Green Bay 7, Menasha 3.

Green Bay bunted its way into the lead in the Fox River Valley league when it sent Hank Schultz, erstwhile Appleton shortstop, Sunday afternoon while Earl Howard was polishing off the Indians in Appleton. The Bayern, temporarily displaced from the league pinnacle by Menasha and then Oshkosh, have retrieved the top position and mean to stay there. Kaukauna moved into a tie with Oshkosh for second place by virtue of its win over Fond du Lac while Menasha was getting the humps. The Pals slipped way down into third place, a half game behind the next highest peg. Fondy still rests on the fifth rung while Appleton is scrambling hard to get its head out of the cellar.

POST OFFICE MEN LOSE AT OSHKOSH

The Appleton Postal Employees' baseball team lost the game played with the Oshkosh Postal Men at Menominee park Sunday afternoon by the score of 10 to 3. This is the second time in 15 years that the Oshkosh team has won from Appleton. The feature of the Appleton team's playing was the brilliant fielding by Kositzke and the heavy hitting of Junge and Firner. Batteries: Appleton, Schneider and Junge; Oshkosh, Smith and Hess. The trip to Oshkosh was made by automobile. A picnic supper was served at the park after the game.

FREIGHT HANDLERS ARE BEATEN BY ONEIDA TEAM

HANK SCHULTZ IS WHIPPED BY BAYS IN 7 TO 2 BATTLE

Bays Play Bunting Game in Seventh Inning and Hank Goes Skyrocketing

Special to The Post-Crescent
Green Bay—Smithson's good pitching coupled with some timely hitting by his team mates, enabled Green Bay to turn back the Menasha Pals, Sunday afternoon, here in a Valley league game to the tune of 7 to 3 before another capacity crowd of fans, quite a sprinkling of whom were from the Woodmen village.

It was a pretty good exhibition of baseball. Even the umpiring was better than usual. The Pals broke the ice in the second frame with a lone counter, added a pair in the third frame, then the Pals came back with two in the fifth but the balloon went up in the seventh and the home chased four runs over the rubber. The invaders staged a weak knuck rally in the ninth which resulted in one more tally.

GIVE CONTRACTS FOR BUILDING 4 COUNTY BRIDGES

State Road and Bridge Committee Gives Jobs to Two Appleton Firms

Contracts for construction of four Outagamie-co. bridges were awarded to two Appleton contractors Monday morning by the county-state road and bridge committee. The contracts are to replace the Kerkloff, DeBruin, Ryan and Fischer bridges, which were washed out by the floods of June 10. Ira E. Morack won the contracts for all bridges except the Kerkloff bridge. The bid of Henry Sprester was low on this bridge. The contract prices were as follows: Kerkloff, $2,416.50; DeBruin, $2,066.40; Ryan, $2,952. Fischer, $855.20. Other contractors who submitted proposals were the Little Chute Cement Block company, Simpson-Farker, Charles Appleton, Garvey-Weyenberg company, John Nasset, Hoffman Construction company, and P. W. Silverwood.

The Kerkloff bridge is in the town of Buchanan on the county line of Brown and Outagamie counties and is to contain 108 cubic yards of concrete, slab type. The DeBruin bridge, also in Buchanan, on the section line between 32 and 33, calls for 100.8 cubic yards, slab type. The Ryan bridge, also in Buchanan, Section 32, is to contain 144 cubic yards of concrete, slab type, and the Fischer bridge, Ellington, 46.6 cubic yards, slab type.

Contracts for four more bridges will be voted on by the committee Monday afternoon.

O'HANLON IN COURT ON CHARGE OF ASSAULT

John O'Hanlon, 1155 Fifth-st., who was charged with assault and battery in municipal court Monday morning, was released on $300 bail and his case was adjourned by Judge Spencer to Aug. 14. Harvey Behrent, 801 Morrison-st., made the complaint. The assault, it is alleged, occurred in front of the Elite theater a Saturday evening. The police report indicates that the defendant struck Behrent in the face, breaking the man's glasses.

Starving Boy Is Found In Medina Barn

Sheriff Schwartz answered a call from a farmer at Medina Friday night to investigate the report that a boy lay in hiding in hay barn there. An automobile was recently stolen in the vicinity and when a stranger took lodging in the barn it was at first feared that he was one of the gang. The guest, however, proved to be but a boy of 14 years. The lad was nearly starved and at first could not be induced to speak. It was later that he gave his name as William Duvel and said that his parents live in Chicago. The parents arrived Sunday morning to take the runaway home.

A daughter was born Saturday to Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Nutting, Lawrence-st., at Maternity hospital. A son was born Sunday to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schmidt, 735 Summer-st. A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. George Callee, Route 3, Appleton, on Sunday.

CORRIGAN URGES VOTERS HERE TO AID LA FOLLETTE

Big Crowd Hears Milwaukee Man Praise Senior Senator's Record

Walter Corrigan, Milwaukee attorney, speaking at a political gathering in Eagle hall Saturday evening, urged the support of the complete LaFollette ticket, from the senator himself down to the last man. The hall was packed to its limit. Fred V. Heinemann, secretary of the Outagamie-co. Farmer-Labor Progressive league introduced the speaker. Attorney Corrigan described the so-called progressive movement from its first inception down to the present day. LaFollette's war record and his work in congress received strong commendation. He scored those senators who voted to seat Senator Newberry. The Esch-Cummins bill was denounced as being a burden upon the people and the cause of endless turmoil. The speaker touched on the local

Combined Locks C. of C. Will Hold Big Picnic

Preparations are being made by the chamber of commerce of Combined Locks for their first picnic next Sunday afternoon in the new Combined Locks park which overlooks a deep ravine near the village. The program includes a concert by the newly organized Little Chute band, dancing in the pavilion from 3 o'clock in the afternoon until 1 o'clock the next morning, tug of war between Little Chute and Kimberly, games and contests of various kinds. The picnic is being given wide publicity in the hope of attracting a large crowd to the enterprising village's new park.

political situation when he said that Outagamie was half represented in legislature last term. "One of your men," he said "voted 100 per cent progressive and the other voted with the reactionaries."

How Many People Worry About "The Things They Might Have Done---But DIDN'T"

The old saw saw: "It is never too late to mend," but another old saying, much more truthful said: "You cannot grind with the water that is past."

And the really wise man said: "Never put off till tomorrow, what you can do today."

There are hundreds of people in Appleton who are going to tell their friends, next Fall, how quickly they were to secure certain things while prices were so low. And hundreds of other people—far from being lucky—are going to say, next Fall: "I wish I had known that prices of cotton and wool things were really going higher—I certainly would have bought what I needed in the Rummage Sale at Pettibone's."

But that's the way the world goes — some people are lucky and others put it off.

And Today starts another WEEK FOR LUCKY BARGAINS OVERLOOKED IN THE RUMMAGE SALE RUSH.
